

U.S. Presses Arms Buildup in Laos Area

Arms Debate Off, U.N. Eyes April 21 Windup

U.S., Reds Will Talk Privately May Defer Topic To Fall Session

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—U.N. diplomats were relieved today by reports the United States and the Soviet Union have agreed on a way to avert a disarmament debate in this session of the General Assembly.

With this controversial issue sidetracked from the main world arena, delegates were hopeful the assembly could wind up by the target date of April 21.

Word Due Today

Informed sources said the two big powers would inform the assembly's main political committee this afternoon that they will continue private talks on the makeup of a new East-West arms negotiating committee and on the time and place for the negotiations to resume.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko and Chief U. S. Delegate Adlai E. Stevenson were also expected to introduce a joint resolution citing their agreement and asking the 99-nation body to defer arms debate until the next session starting Sept. 19.

Stevenson has been negotiating with the Soviets for more than four weeks in search of some way to postpone an arms debate until the fall and thus gain time for the Kennedy administration to formulate its disarmament policy. Stevenson and Gromyko reportedly have agreed that negotiations, which broke down in Geneva last June, should resume July 31, again in Geneva.

Makeup Big Bloc

The main sticking point has been the makeup of the new negotiating committee and the basic principles under which it would negotiate.

Originally Stevenson sought to revive the 10-nation East-West committee as it stood, but Gromyko held out for adding five neutrals. Recently both were reported agreed on adding three members, but the Soviet Union wants them to be full-fledged negotiators, while the United States prefers them to sit in as observers.

Both are reported agreed that the three should be Mexico, India and the United Arab Republic.

Goldfine Names Names

WASHINGTON (AP)—Boston industrialist Bernard Goldfine, 70, who faces trial on income tax evasion charges, reportedly has named some well-known government figures in connection with alleged improper influence.

The disclosure that Goldfine had given expensive gifts to Sherman Adams, White House aide to former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, led to Adams' resignation in 1958. Both denied any wrongdoing. Later investigation led to Goldfine's indictment on income tax evasion.

Retiring Teacher, Peace Justice Nominated for School Board Posts

Mrs. Edith Case Murphy of 255 Pearl Street and Robert S. Stedje of Sunset Park, Town of Ulster, were named Wednesday night by the Nonpartisan Nominating Committee as its candidates for the Kingston Board of Education (Consolidated).

They were selected from among eight prospective candidates who presented themselves for committee consideration—six men and two women.

Two separate secret ballots were held by the 34 members of the committee—one for each of two vacancies on the board. Mrs. Murphy was elected on the first ballot for one of the positions, Stedje on the first ballot for the other position.

Teacher Here 44 Years

Mrs. Murphy, who has taught in the Kingston school system for the past 44 years, will retire in June. She is head of the mathematics department at Kingston High School.

Stedje, 34, an employee of the Canfield Supply Company of Kingston, is a justice of the peace in the town of Ulster. He has held state and local offices in the Junior Chamber of Commerce and was Jaycee Man of the Year in 1960.

Chris Larios of Hurley was appointed by Chairman Abraham Streifer of the Nonpartisan Nominating Committee to spearhead a campaign committee composed of George E. Yerry Jr., Joseph McCann, Sol Rosenthal, Mrs. Ernest Grafe and Mrs. Benjamin Chipman.

Nominating petitions were distributed to members of the Nonpartisan Nominating Committee. Chairman Streifer also named a special committee on nominating petitions, consisting of Mrs. Melvin Mones, chairman, Everett Hodge, Mrs. Charlotte Peck, Mrs. Grafe and McCann.

Strong Ticket, He Says

Following election of the two candidates which the Nonpartisan Nominating Committee will actively support in the campaign, Chairman Streifer remarked that, in his opinion, "we have a very strong ticket—a ticket that can win." He will send letters to each of the other prospective candidates who appeared before the committee, expressing the appreciation of the organization for their interest and effort in behalf of education.

Mrs. Esther Weissman of the town of Ulster, was appointed to the public relations committee replacing Mrs. Mones who became chairman of the petitions committee.

A. J. P. Seitz of Kingston was appointed to the finance committee replacing McCann who was named to the campaign committee.

Deadline for filing nominating petitions is April 12. Each candidate must have at least 100 signatures. The election will be held Tuesday, May 2, to fill vacancies resulting from expiration of the terms of Robert Herzog, president of the board and Robert O'Reilly, vice-president.

Two Independents to Run

Bernie Singer, a North Front Street businessman, and Howard Mansfield of Tillson, an employee of IBM, have offered their candidacies, running as independents. Endorsement of Mrs. Murphy and Stedje last night was the culmination of a series of meetings following establishment of

Grand Jury Gives Report

5 Caught by Posse Are Indicted on Wednesday

Five men captured at gunpoint at the Edsall Drug Store, Main Street, Wallkill, on March 8, have been indicted by the grand jury on charges of third degree burglary, unlawful entry, second-degree attempted grand larceny and petit larceny.

The men are: Richard D. Brown, 19, an AWOL Marine, formerly of Wallkill.

Robert W. Dane, 19, an AWOL Marine who at the time of his arrest said he had been sleeping in automobiles in New York City.

Kenneth W. Allen, an AWOL Marine who had accompanied Brown and Dane to New York.

Anthony L. B. De Solis, 19, Hotel Byron, West 49th Street, New York City.

Joseph W. McKeon, 20, 308 Willis Avenue, the Bronx.

Captured by Posse

The five were captured at gunpoint by a neighborhood posse, two off-duty Wallkill prison guards and a town constable after a woman neighbor who had been awakened by noise in the drug store alley shortly before 2:30 a. m. alerted the men.

Mrs. Susan Redden, who lives across the street from the home of George J. Coffey, a Wallkill prison guard, called the Coffey home and notified Mrs. Coffey of the noise in the alley next to the drug store.

On investigation Coffey found a parked car in front of the Edsall store and on being joined by Arthur Agor, another prison guard, Kenneth Murphy, who resides nearby and Constable William Berryman, the five men were rounded up. One of the men was hidden behind a parked car, suspected of being the get-away car. The other four were ordered

Many Stores Will Be Open Tonight

Additional shopping hours are available tonight in most Kingston stores, especially in the uptown shopping district. In addition to the special night hours to 9 o'clock, stores will be open for the usual Friday night hours tomorrow.

In making this announcement today, Clyde Wonderly Jr., president of the Kingston Uptown Businessmen's Association had this to say:

"Many special Easter season values are being offered. With over 130 retail and service establishments in the uptown shopping center, customers have the widest possible selections, all within easy walking distance of almost 2,000 parking spaces," Wonderly concluded.

These parking spaces include the Dietz Memorial Stadium parking lot where close to 1,000 spaces are available free of charge.

Congress Vacations For Easter Will Have Chance To Talk to Folks

WASHINGTON (AP)—Members of Congress take off today for an Easter vacation and a chance to find out at first hand what the folks at home think about President Kennedy's New Frontier program.

On the results of their personal canvass may depend the legislative fate of some hotly-contested presidential proposals such as the administration programs for federal aid to education and medical care for the elderly.

13 Big Bills Still Around

The Easter break after nearly three months of sessions found 13 of 16 top priority bills listed by the President in February still bouncing around in various stages of the legislative process.

Along with some other measures it passed, Congress had completed action on only three on the priority list—an extension of unemployment benefits, a feed grains control measure and Senate ratification of U. S. affiliation with the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development.

While this represented only moderate progress, administration strategists professed to be confident that Kennedy will get most of his program through in time for an early summer adjournment of Congress.

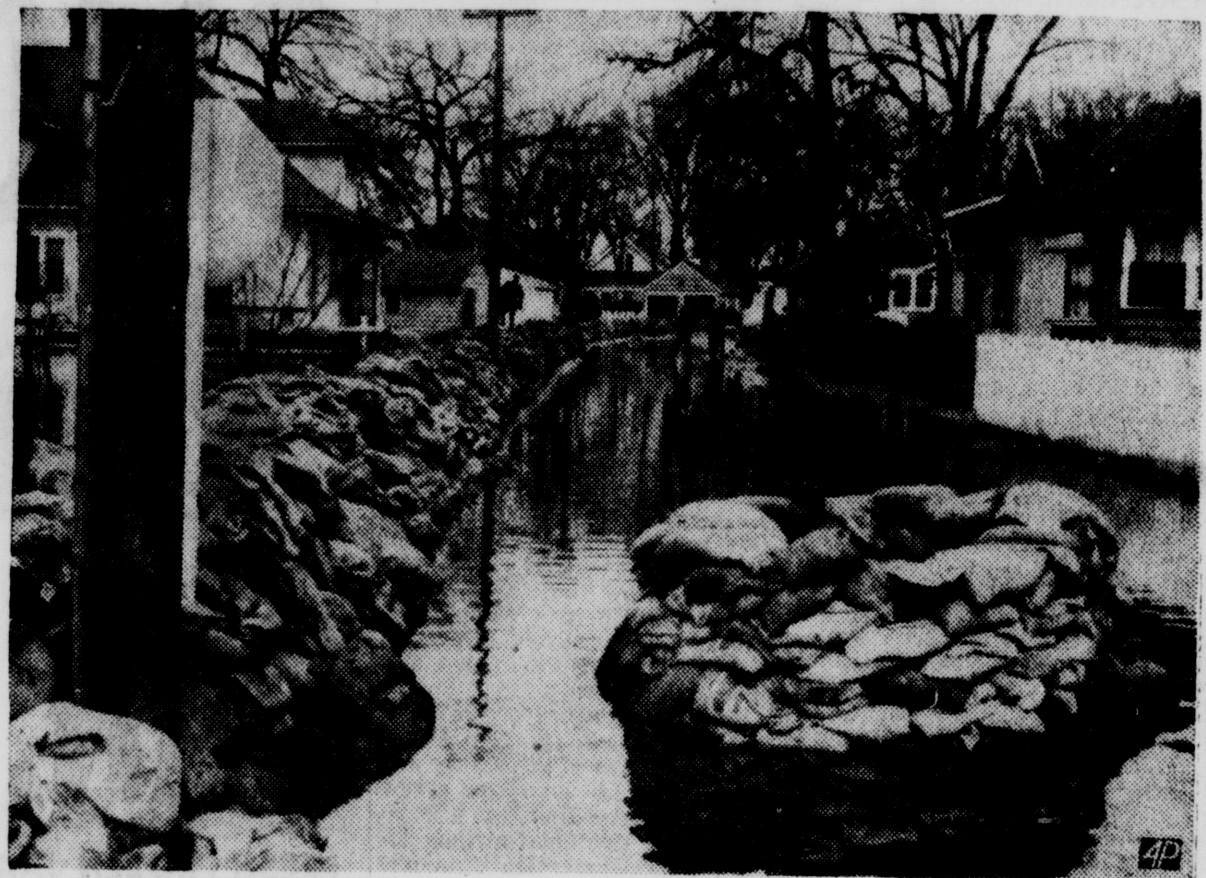

They were heartened by House passage Wednesday of a $394 million program for depressed areas in substantially the form the President recommended. A compromise with the Senate's version is in order before the bill can be sent to the White House.

Offsets Defeat

This victory offset in part the licking Kennedy took with House passage last week of a Republican substitute for his minimum wage bill. The Senate will take up this measure in mid-April with indications that it may approve a bill more satisfactory to the President.

The Senate has passed but the House has not yet acted on priority list bills to extend the President's government reorganization authority, to create new federal judgeships and to establish an office of international travel.

The House, in turn, has passed a measure for the aid of dependent children of unemployed fathers which awaits Senate action.

Says India Has Valuable Hint

Nehru, Rusk in Accord On Laos, Congo Steps

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk stopped off for talks with Prime Minister Nehru today on his way back to Washington and the Indian leader said they agreed "very largely" on approaches to the problems of Laos and the Congo.

Rusk and Nehru conferred for an hour and a half and then had lunch together before Rusk continued his journey home from the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization meeting in Bangkok, Thailand.

Hope for the Best

Asked by newsmen whether he expected peace in Laos, Nehru replied: "I can't say. We hope for the best."

He said he had received no fresh indications of the Soviet attitude toward the peace proposals put forward by the British on behalf of the eight-nation SEATO alliance. But he added India had received "a very valuable hint some time ago." He did not elaborate.

Rusk said the length of time the West can wait for the Soviet answer depends upon what happens on the ground in Laos, and the next move is up to Moscow. As Rusk spoke, the Laotian government charged, Soviet transport planes still were flying into Laos and that heavy fighting broke out two days ago in eastern Laos between the Communist-backed rebels and the royal army.

Rusk said no time limit had been set for the Soviet reply.

No Discussion on SEATO

Rusk said he and Nehru did not discuss the communiqué issued by the SEATO ministers in Bangkok. That declaration warned Moscow that members of the alliance were prepared to take "appropriate action" unless the Communists quit military intervention in Laos. But it did not spell out what action would be taken and held out a hand for negotiations to end the strife in the jungle Asian kingdom. Moscow newspapers reported the SEATO declaration in such mild terms today that Western diplomats in the Soviet capital felt it indicated the Kremlin was disposed to seek a workable solution to the Laotian war.

Red China and Communist North Viet Nam denounced the SEATO conference without mentioning the declaration.

Po'keepsie Man Faces Robbery, Seek Accomplice

An unemployed 22-year-old laborer today was in custody at Poughkeepsie facing a first degree robbery charge, and authorities were combing the city for an accomplice in connection with the robbery of a 73-year-old grocer.

Police Chief John L. Martin told The Freeman that Henry H. McClintock, 52 Jefferson Street, Poughkeepsie, was ordered held in $1,000 bail by City Judge Charles O'Donnell after arraignment on the robbery charge. The case was adjourned until Wednesday, April 5 at 9 a. m.

Chief Martin said police received a report at about 3 p. m. Wednesday that two men had robbed Wincenty Luty, who resides and operates a grocery store at 75 South Water Street in downtown Poughkeepsie.

Dispatched to the scene to investigate were Detective Sergeant James Murphy, Detectives Jack Benton, Edward McLaughlin and others.

$8 Million Aid Signed By Rocky for Railroads

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Gov. Rockefeller's plan to funnel $8 million in financial help into hard-pressed commuter railroads was law today.

The railroads—the New Haven, New York Central, and Long Island—daily carry approximately 230,000 persons into New York City.

The governor's program will provide a total of $2.8 million in tax relief for the New York Central.

The Long Island will get $2 million in tax relief and $1,086,000 in aid for station maintenance. The New Haven will get $1.8 million in tax relief plus $270,000 in decreased station expenses.

The tax relief, totaling $6.6 million, is to be granted through reduction of local real estate taxes under a state formula that gears the relief to the railroad's earnings.

The legislation was in three bills signed by the governor.

The program is part of a multi-state, New York City and three county plan of railroad help.

Participating are Massachusetts, Connecticut and Rhode Island, New York City, and Westchester, Suffolk and Nassau counties.

The city and Nassau and Suffolk counties will pay $1,086,000 toward Long Island stations. Westchester County communities will pay $270,000 toward New Haven stations.

Of the total tax relief, New York State will pay $4.6 million, including $1.3 million in increased school aid, and the local governments $3.4 million.

In Other developments:

Primary Day—Sept. 7 will be primary day in New York State. Candidates will be selected for mayoral elections Nov. 7. No statewide offices are on the ballot, although several constitutional amendments will be decided.

Republican leaders in the Legislature mandated the late primary in the hope of leaving embattled Democrats in New York City's mayoral election too little time to unite behind a candidate.

Plans Go On Until Reds Reply Laotians Report Heavy Fighting

WASHINGTON (AP)—In the absence of a Soviet cease fire agreement for Laos, the United States is reportedly pressing ahead with its buildup as military power in and near Southeast Asia.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk is said to have made clear to U.S. allies at a Southeast Asia Treaty Organization meeting this week that the Kennedy administration is determined to use force to the extent it may be compelled to do so to prevent a Communist takeover in the Southeast Asia kingdom.

Even Chance Indicated

However, officials here estimate there is at least an even chance that Soviet Premier Khrushchev will agree to a cease fire and follow up negotiations at an international conference for a permanent Laotian settlement.

A reply from the Soviet government to a U. S. backed British proposal for a cease fire and an international conference on Laos is expected by the end of the week, officials said today.

Pending disclosure of the Soviet reaction, they said, the United States has no assurance that a peaceful settlement can be achieved; it is therefore continuing the preparations for possible military action and the strengthening of Laotian government forces which were started last week.

Clear Word to Soviet

A resolution adopted Wednesday at a SEATO meeting in Bangkok, Thailand, is regarded here as making clear to the Soviet bloc not only U. S. but allied concern over the Soviet-backed rebel efforts to take over the country. If action should become necessary, officials said, the resolution demonstrates that it will have an all-out basis.

However, the resolution put major emphasis on allied interest in getting a peaceful settlement.

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—The Laotian government today reported heavy fighting in eastern Laos two days ago, contradicting previous reports that a virtual cease-fire seemed to be in effect during the SEATO conference.

Information Minister Bouavann Norasing issued a report of a violent battle Tuesday near Kam Keut, about 130 miles east of Vientiane. The report claimed government troops killed 80 of the pro-Communist rebels.

Bouavann also said six Soviet Lushin transports were spotted today over the battle front near the Thom, 115 miles east of Vientiane. He gave no further details.

New Post Office Surveys, Plans Are Progressing

Plans for a new main post office in the city are more definite than they were at the end of 1960, it was learned today from a source which was not permitted, as of this date, to reveal details.

The Freeman announced on Dec. 8, 1960 that surveys were under way and that a site in the former Athletic Field, off Cornell Street and Smith Avenue, was said to be among those under consideration.

To Cost About Million

Reports today indicated that surveys and plans are progressing to the point of permitting an announcement by federal officials in the near future. The cost is expected to be close to $1,000,000.

It was noted last year that after Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson, of Woodstock, had emphasized the need of a new post office for the city, Congressman J. Ernest Wharton of Richmondville, Schoharie County, announced in March, 1958 that he would seek federal action authorizing one.

President Kennedy recently advised acceleration of post office construction in communities where they are needed and have been planned. All such construction projects, he said, would be a stimulus to the national economy.

Defeats Damage Rocky's Aggressive Image

New-Style Gov. Emerges From 1961 Session of Legislature

By MICHAEL KEATING
Associated Press Staff Writer

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—A new-style Gov. Rockefeller emerged from the 1961 legislative session.

Depending upon your point of view, the new Rockefeller could be regarded as a man bowed by disappointment or as a more artful practitioner of politics.

The legislative session just concluded was marked by far less strife and more compromise within the Republican hierarchy than was the case in the previous two sessions during which Rockefeller occupied the Executive Chamber.

Less to Fight Over

But, although there was less strife, there also was less of a legislative program to fight over.

When Rockefeller flew to Puerto Rico after the session, he was less the dynamic, bustling leader with new answers to all the old problems, and more a man inclined toward the tried and true methods, ready with a compromise.

Part of the reason for this change from the Nelson Rockefeller who zoomed into the governor's chair in 1958 is the fact that the gubernatorial election in which he is entered is not this year but next.

The standard political theory is that a politician saves his blackest headlines and best programs for an election year.

But another reason is the beating some of Rockefeller's most wide-ranging and new-style programs took at the hands of the Republican majorities in the 1960 session. Such unusual things as mandatory construction of fallout shelters in every home and new taxing districts for school purposes never got off the ground.

The feeling in the Rockefeller camp was that these defeats damaged the Rockefeller image of aggressiveness.

The dynamic programs were missing this year. The one that generated the most controversy and the most attention was his "scholar-incentive" plan, which began as a program of aid to the private colleges, a fairly straightforward concept.

But it ran into a fight over constitutionality. The governor said he did not want to become involved in a constitutional battle, and the program was changed to one of aid to the individual students, a sort of scholarship for everybody.

Because of the tortuous details worked into it to make it a scholarship program it lost much of its impact and did not generate much enthusiasm on Capitol Hill.

Gives Up on Full-Crews

The Legislature passed it, however, and it stands as a concrete accomplishment.

Rockefeller completely gave up on one program that showed signs of generating an old-fashioned political fight. That was the issue of the "full-crew laws" which determine the size of crews that operate railway trains. Rockefeller had said the laws represented labor union featherbedding and had created expectations of a recommendation to do something about them.

The recommendation never came, however, because the railroad brotherhoods told him they would fight him, and various Republican legislators sympathetic to the railroad brotherhoods made clear that they would not support him.

Varied on Compromises

The governor compromised on the issues of discrimination in the sale of private housing, of welfare-residency, school aid and tax cuts. He had refused to compromise on most of these issues last year.

Some persons considered the compromises damaging to Rockefeller. But others pointed to the fact that the compromises produced laws, rather than elaboration of principles.

Union Springs Radio Station Put Off Air

UNION SPRINGS, N. Y. (AP)—Radio station WHTR is off the air, "permanently."

The station which sent out 12-watts on 1615 kilocycles, slightly over the commercial broadcast band, was turned off Tuesday. The final words heard by listeners in this Cayuga County village were:

"Ladies and gentlemen, this is a Federal Communications Commission agent. Radio station WHTR is now going off the air permanently because of unlicensed, unlawful broadcasting on a non-commercial frequency."

Edward W. Sanders, director of an FCC monitoring station at nearby Canandaigua, said the station had been broadcasting recorded music, news and public service announcements since last October from a spare room in the home of a 29-year-old man.

Sanders declined to identify the man and two others he said aided in the operation. No charges were placed.

Agents first heard the station Sunday and used directional tracking devices and a mobile unit to locate it. The station was on the air six hours during the week and 15 hours on Saturdays and Sundays. It had a range of 35-40 miles.

Sanders said transmitting on a non-commercial frequency could have interfered with some aviation and government broadcasting.

He said the men apparently were deriving no income from the operation, but were doing it just for fun.

CANCER APPEAL OCCURS IN APRIL. Mayor Edwin F. Radcliff, seated, proclaims April as Cancer Crusade Month. Displaying promotional material to be used in the annual drive are Daniel Weisburg, city chairman; Dr. Gerald P. Gorman, president of the Ulster County Chapter of the American Cancer Society; Mrs. Arthur Freeman, county volunteer director and Mrs. Paul Wendrow, unit secretary. A goal of $35,000 has been set for the county this year. Kick-off meeting will be held Tuesday 7:30 p. m. at the Governor Clinton Hotel. Clyde Wonderly Jr., general campaign chairman, has announced that Mrs. Lawrence Marble, director, and other state officials of Cancer Society will be on hand to meet with campaign workers. Pack 12 Scouts Receive Awards

Presentation of awards, demonstrations and a shadow play featured this month's meeting of Cub Pack 12 held Monday at Old Dutch Church.

The meeting opened with songs under leadership of Mrs. Dorothy Stokes. Cubmaster George Christian reported the pack had subscribed 100 per cent for Boy's Life magazine and said the Pine-wood Derby would be held again at the April meeting. He told the boys to prepare their cars for the event.

The theme for March was Railroad and many clubs visited the Model Railroad Club on Pine Grove Avenue.

A feature of the March meeting was a demonstration by relay teams of boys who attempted to drive spikes into blocks of wood that represented railroad ties. Den 3 won the event.

A shadow play depicting two Cub scouts on a trip to the moon was enacted by Mrs. Stokes.

The attendance flag was presented to Den 4. Movies were shown of past activities held by Pack 12.

Four boys and their parents were welcomed into the pack as bobcats. They were, Howard Kelman, David Rider, John Van Kleeck and Douglas Durling.

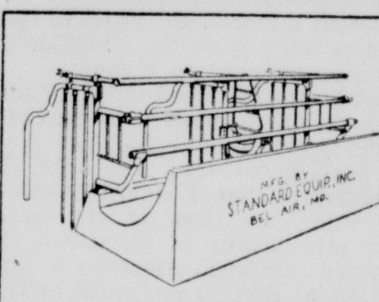

Assistant Cubmaster Edward Kittle made awards as follows: Robert Ennis, gold arrow under bear; Robert Clausi, two silver arrows under wolf; Joseph Fiore, silver arrow under wolf; Karl Schlatter, wolf badge, a gold and two silver arrows under wolf; Kevin Bishop, gold and silver arrows under bear; Cary Saehlof, gold and silver arrows under bear. Also, Ernest Townsend, lion badge; Allen Stangel, Webelos badge; Steven Sharot, dinner stripe; Robert Marnell one year service star, one year perfect attendance pin; Ernest Townsend, lion badge. Cubmaster Christian and his assistant, Edward Kittle were presented with one year service pins. Mrs. Henrietta Scism, den mother, received a six-year service pin and a six-year attendance bar.

GOLDWATER BACKS OFF

Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, rival of Richard Nixon and Gov. Nelson Rockefeller for last summer's GOP sweepstakes at Chicago, said in a recent San Antonio television appearance that he was "not seeking and does not want the Republican presidential nomination in 1964." Some of his disappointed friends wonder why.

Goldwater had just completed a Texas tour campaigning for John G. Tower, lone Republican entry in the state's April primary to pick candidates for the Senate seat vacated when Lyndon Johnson became vice president. In his speeches Goldwater castigated the Kennedy administration for "trying to nationalize America," and declared that the Kennedy program was merely a warm-over of "old ideas which have been tried before and failed."

That being his view, why shouldn't a 1964 campaign be a made-to-order opportunity for a Goldwater race? If he waits until 1968 and should then be elected president he would be 60 years old before he was inaugurated, almost as old as Eisenhower was in 1953. Many Goldwater partisans understandably take the view that in this case "time is of the essence."

KITE FLYING TIME

Kite flying, the traditional sport of youngsters, is with us again and once more we ask parents to caution children about certain dangers.

Kite flyers should let their cords out only in open areas, away from automobile traffic and electric lines. The kite pilot cannot watch the kite and the traffic at the same time. Getting kites tangled with electric lines can be extremely dangerous. The Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp. has warned that kite cord should not have tinsel or wire in it and it should be dry. If that precaution is not heeded, contact of the cord with a live wire could carry electricity right down to the holder and cause serious trouble.

If a kite does get tangled in wires, or in a tree through which wire is running, no attempt should be made to retrieve it. It will be better to lose the kite than to risk losing a life.

PREPARATION FIRST

President Kennedy has once again placed himself on record in opposition to a summit conference among the leaders of major powers without preliminary talks at a lower level. He did so in a filmed interview broadcast in Britain.

Diplomatic talks are a necessary prelude, the President noted, because they give an indication of what progress might be made. "If there has not been that meeting of minds at the lower level," he said, "a two- or three-day publicized encounter will not bring about a substantial change."

These remarks were broadcast at about the time President Kennedy and Prime Minister Macmillan were talking in Key West about the Laos crisis. Macmillan has been a leading proponent of an early summit conference. The chances are good that Mr. Kennedy's view will prevail—and we think that it should.

RADAR AGAINST RADAR

There is now a device which enables a motorist to detect police radar speed traps before they can record his speed. When the gadget whistles, the motorist can reduce velocity and thus glide into the radar beam sedately within the legal limit.

Depending on how one looks at it, this device is a means of protecting the driver against police harassment or a slick way of evading the law. We lean to the latter view of it.

Granted, the police in some areas apparently set up radar traps with no other motive than to collect revenues for the municipality. Perhaps a driver needs protection in those areas. Yet the fact remains that even in such cases the trap is not sprung unless the driver is exceeding the speed limit. Driving within the limit is the best

THE CONSEQUENCES OF ERRORS

Historical mistakes can never be corrected. A chain of events is set in motion, often universally, from which there is no retreat except by revolution or war. Events move too rapidly and become too complex to leave time to erase the errors of statesmen.

The world today is living in a period of the consequences of World War I. These consequences may be listed as follows:

1. The collapse of great empires, some of which had a thousand years of history. The immediate pressures demanded that wherever a political vacuum appeared, it immediately be filled; that wherever an economic impediment established itself, it be removed. Thus the collapse of the Hapsburg, Romanov, Hohenzollern Empires during World War I left much of Europe in political chaos. The so-called successor and liberated countries were only, in a few instances, ready for self-government. The League of Nations served no effective purpose. Between the beginning of World War I and the end of World War II, the British and Dutch Empires collapsed. The Japanese Empire, patiently built since 1868, disappeared. The Romanov Empire was succeeded by the Soviet Union. The European economic interest in China and India was destroyed.
2. Four non-European powers rose to prominence, namely, the United States, Soviet Russia, the Moslem Arab Society (still in formation), the Latin American Confederation (still in its embryonic state). These changes are keeping the entire world in chaos.

To them must be added the Sinic Society in the East of Asia which is emerging as an enormous power with satellites that are larger in population and potential wealth than many countries of Europe. What the historic influence of the Sinic Society will be, it is impossible to foretell at this moment but its physical influence extends far into the Indian Ocean. Its present physical objective is the Chienlung Line which extends from Turkestan, through Tibet, down along the eastern boundary of India to the Bay of Bengal. Take a look at a map and draw the Chienlung Line and recognize that the Sinic Society, if successful, must ultimately absorb India.

3. The above political and geographical changes do not explain what has happened to mankind in half a century. The Western World has lived under an umbrella of a moralistic philosophy based upon Judaism, Christianity and Aristotelianism for at least 2,000 years. The ways of life were fixed by the Natural Law, a concept of the right as revealed by God. In the West particularly the rights of the individual were recognized as fundamental, extending far beyond the rights of the state. The Common Law of England, the Scandinavian Laws with which it is associated, the Code of Napoleon which grew out of Roman Law and the Constitutional system of the United States represent a moralistic effort to free the individual human being from the shackles of state whimsicalities tantamount to tyranny.

This concept has been challenged by Hegelianism-Marxism in its various formulations, particularly by different Communist and Socialist governments which have come into existence. It needs to be remembered that Fascism, Nazism and the Welfare State are born of the same parentage as any other form of Socialism. It needs also to be noted that such countries as the United States and Great Britain and most of the new nations that have come into existence are directly influenced by this central change in thought. No country on Earth is today unaffected positively or negatively by Marxism which seeks to replace Christianity as the prevailing thought of the period. New scientific developments and unproved postulates of the social sciences are producing an antagonism to religion and the family which can, in time, destroy our particular civilization.

4. The result has been a moral revolution, the consequences of which move more swiftly and more daringly than political and economic change. The moral standards of all peoples have shifted from the Natural Law to an arrogant attack on the family as the central institution of society. This has also tended to influence religious institutions which, in some countries, no longer exercise any influence at all and in others a waning relationship to the conduct of the people.

These are the revolutionary changes in process at the present time and none of them are for the betterment of the human race.

Partial Physical May Miss Subtle Change in Condition

By HAROLD T. HYMAN, M.D.

Q—"What can or should a patient do when he feels that he has been charged too much for a physical examination? Is it fair to take a chest X-ray every few years when there is no history of colds, lung trouble or a heart condition? I can't find charges for blood tests, urinalysis and cancer tests but I don't think a proctoscopic examination is necessary or desirable every year when one is not having much trouble with bowel movements or hemorrhoids."

"Don't you think a patient who has been going to the same doctor for several years has a complete enough record so that the doctor does not have to go over the same things again and again? How can older people afford this sort of thing at the rates charged these days?"

A—My correspondent's dilemma puts me in mind of a Talmudic story that involved two disputants. Each told his story to the learned rabbi. To each, the rabbi responded, "You're quite right." A listener rebuked the rabbi for what appeared to be double dealing. "How can you listen to difference stories about the same incident and tell each of the parties involved in the dispute that he's quite right? I should think you'd be ashamed of yourself." To which the rabbi answered, "You're quite right."

I can see myself in complete agreement with my correspondent in every phase of her criticism of her doctor. Perhaps there was no need to take the chest X-ray. Perform the unpleasant proctoscopic examination. Go over the same examinations again and again, year after year, in a survey whose purpose was merely that of an annual check-up.

But suppose something was found? Suppose there was a shadow in the lung that wasn't there before? Suppose the heart was just a bit larger than it had been at the previous examination? Suppose there was a suspicious lump or sore inside the bowel that bled just a little when it was touched? Not enough to produce bleeding you could see with your naked eyes. But just enough to give pause for thought.

What then would such a discovery be worth even at present rates? The price of a new dress? Or a new overcoat?

And what price would be exacted for a missed diagnosis? A lingering illness? An extensive operative procedure? Or life itself?

I don't know, dear lady. Reading your complaint, I should venture the opinion that "you're quite right." If I listened to your doctor's version, I'd probably conclude that "he was quite right."

And after you've read this column maybe you'll agree that I'm "quite right."

"Don't Look Back—Someone's Gaining"

Washington News

By RAY CROMLEY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON, — (NEA) —

There is a major change brewing in United States foreign policy. For the first time in history, the United States will systematically "advise" deeply in the internal political and social affairs of some other sovereign countries. The aim: to achieve, where possible, the same sort of changes the United States attempted in Japan after World War II.

The advice will be aimed principally at weak or shaky governments and at colony-holding nations. In each case the advice will be intended to strengthen the country—or its colonies—internally against communism.

This is the only way the Kennedy administration men have figured out how to prevent a future Cuba, a Laos or a Congo.

THE AMERICANS WILL push for redistribution of land, breakup of commercial and business monopolies, tax reform, easier credit for small businessmen, farmers and the Joe Smiths, better housing and schools, and for wider political representation and voting.

It is planned that this advising will be done delicately, where possible. But it will on some occasions be done openly and bluntly. It will often be accompanied by some economic rewards. In some cases these will be the implication that the rewards will be forthcoming—IF the changes are made. In that sense, it might be called a form of economic pressure.

The administration's men think it is futile to try to prevent a Batista-type Cuba from falling to some Castro. They reason it is next to futile to prevent a weak, limpid, no-internal-strength Laos from falling to Red guerrillas. They hold it is almost impossible to preserve an uneducated, inexperienced, unprepared Congo that suddenly becomes free.

They figure that United States economic aid alone thus will not prevent a Laos or a Congo. Neither will military aid. Nor will alliances.

That makes just pouring in United States funds hopeless.

THE KENNEDY administration's men have decided that a list of governments around the world are destined to fall, as Batista's Cuba fell, because of social pressures. This kind of a revolution can breed communism, as it did in Cuba.

They figure that unless these social conditions are changed, the countries cannot stand against these revolutionary forces. So some of these lands will be doomed to communism. They calculate there is no use in waiting, that most of these governments will not of their own unpurged volition make these changes or make them fast enough to prevent the Communists from coming in.

These are several areas which have top priority in this program:

South Viet Nam: U. S. officials will urge President Ngo Dinh Diem to broaden the base of his government. They believe he is doing an excellent job personally but they fear his government will fall unless it has wide public support.

Iran: The diplomats are especially worried about this loyal ally. Wealth is in the hands of a few; there's widespread desire for land. Social revolutionary pressures are mounting.

The smaller countries of South and Central America: There's serious worry that several Latin governments will fall in the next two to three years.

Neglect of Profit Problem Is Seen in Budget Message

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — President Kennedy has sent to Congress a message on the budget that doesn't come to grips with the real problem of the country—how to increase profits so that there'll be more tax receipts for the treasury.

Since the Federal government is entitled to collect in taxes 52 per cent out of all profits, it would seem that any administration would be working hard these days to find ways to move profits upwards. But all the "task forces" hereabouts — composed mostly of some college professors who regard an impetus to profits as a forbidden, if not poisonous, subject—haven't come up with any plan to increase treasury receipts.

Plenty of words have been issued on how to pep up the economy by spending more money for "social welfare," but the true causes of unemployment—the failure to provide tax incentives in manufacturing industries—have been largely ignored.

Job creation is the most important subject before the country today and while a Democratic Congress has been in session nearly three months, not a single bill has been reported to either house to encourage the normal processes of job-making.

1,500,000 Laid Off
Yet 29 per cent of the labor force is in manufacturing—the biggest single group. The unemployment figures show that 1,500,000 of the unemployed have been laid off in manufacturing businesses. While aid to "depressed areas" and extension of unemployment compensation are desirable, they are not a cure for the real ailment—failure of manufacturing to grow in volume as it should. This is because tax laws that apply to replacement and modernization of plant and equipment are antiquated and ineffective.

Unless the climate for business development improves generally, the prospect of getting more receipts from taxes for the treasury will grow worse, and even if there is a recovery period in the next few months, it may be followed soon by another recession.

The trend of the times unfortunately is toward more and more government spending for "social welfare" without paying much attention to the need for developing and increasing revenue from the normal sources of taxation. Business and the government are partners in the profit-making process. It might be thought that the Federal government would be much concerned about increasing the receipts from its 52 per cent tax on corporations. This logically points to the desirability of providing promptly a stimulus for business growth.

The other day when President Kennedy spoke of increasing the minimum wage from $1 to $1.25 an hour, he said he couldn't see why any business "making $1,000,000 a year or over" should object. He was obviously mistaken in his reference, which should have been to gross sales of that amount, but his error started a line of thought as to just how many companies in this country do make $1,000,000 or over and what profits are made by the different classes of companies—large and small.

3,857 Made a Million
It turns out for instance, that in 1958—the latest year for which figures are available there were only 3,857 corporations making $1,000,000 or more a year after paying taxes, while there were 607,274 corporations making less than $1,000,000 a year. There were 379,274 corporations which lost money. The first group had $16,000,000,000 left after taxes, and the second group retained about $8,000,000,000. Thus the total amount earned by both groups after taxes was about $24,000,000,000. This is a little more than enough to pay half of America's defense budget today, which is growing beyond $44,000,000,000. So, even if business earnings were taxed 100 per cent, there wouldn't be enough from the category alone to balance the $84,000,000,000 budget now being proposed by the President.

Obviously, even if the deficit is to be held at the expected $3 billion in the new budget and corporation taxes run to around $20 billion, about $61 billion has to come from tax payments by individuals employed in business, in the professions, in agricultural pursuits, and in other activities, and from sales and excise taxes. But unless the business structure is healthy, these sources of revenue drop off, too.

Unspectacular Topic
It is surprising, therefore that the Kennedy administration has neglected to do any thing about stimulating the flow of profits in business. Vague intimations have been given that tax-depreciation allowances are to be revised, but this topic doesn't appear to have any of the spectacular urge that the "Peace Corps" idea has behind it, though tax-depreciation laws can mean far more for America and for the foreign-aid program than any other single factor that could be cited.

Uncle Sam, as a more than 50-50 partner in American business, would appear to be rightfully concerned about how to increase profits, but so powerful are the demagogic influences against doing anything to help business that the subject is not getting the attention it deserves.

Even the new Secretary of Commerce—who is supposed to be as vigorous an advocate of business legislation as his colleague, the Secretary of Labor, is in pressing for measures wanted by the A. F. L.-C. I. O.—isn't making a fight for the tax-depreciation program. Nobody in the White House or in Congress seems to be a champion of larger and larger tax receipts that can and should be derived from business profits, not only for the benefit of the U. S. Treasury but for the unemployed who would get jobs if business could achieve a healthy recovery.

ing of $10,000 per family living unit.

Large Market Potential
The aim is to attract families wishing to improve or enlarge present quarters. The market potential here could be quite large, builders say. For one thing, today's higher building costs would apply only to the addition and not to the entire resulting house.

A further goal is to interest home owners and landlords in city areas where older housing is beginning to turn shabby — prelude to becoming slums of the type that blight large sections of many cities.

It is hoped that property owners will consider taking out a long-term mortgage to repair or modernize existing housing so that whole neighborhoods can be saved from taking the plunge. Builders say such moves taken in time are often more than repaid in increased resale values or in command of higher rentals.

This, at least, is the thinking behind the new housing proposals.

matter of FACT

When a beehive needs a new queen, worker bees "create" one. They pick an egg cell originally no different than any others. It's the special attention they give this cell that makes a queen. They tear down neighboring cells to give extra space. When the egg hatches, workers glub the larva with bee jelly in massive concentrations. Then one day a queen emerges—the result of special diet and "tender care."

Household Help Should Be Under Social Security

While most workers and self-employed people are having earnings credited regularly to their social security account, this does not apply to some people, notably household workers. George J. Johnson, social security district manager, announced today that of the approximately 1,200 household workers in private homes in Ulster and Sullivan Counties, many are not receiving the social security credits they have earned.

Although household employment has been covered by the social security law since 1951, many household employers do not know that they must report the wages of their part-time employees.

Johnson pointed out that the earnings of part-time household employees must be reported the same as employees in labor and industry. A household employee who is paid at least $50 in cash wages during a calendar quarter by one employer—as little as $4 a week for a three month calendar quarter of the year—is covered by social security; her employer is required to report her wages and pay the social security taxes due.

The Internal Revenue Service, in cooperation with the Social Security Administration, has designed a simplified procedure for reporting the earnings of household employees. Upon request the Internal Revenue Service will put a household employer on the mailing list to receive the simplified self-mailer envelope on which to report the wages of her employees.

Johnson added that part-time household employees need not lose any social security credits if they or their employers get in touch with the local Internal Revenue Office or their social security district office and learn the facts about their social security.

What Is Best Third Lead?

Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn. Study the East hand and the bidding only. Your partner opens the jack of hearts against South's four spade contract. South wins the trick with the king and plays the deuce of diamonds. Your partner plays low and dummy's nine falls to your jack. What should you play now?

You decide against a heart lead because you don't know where the deuce is. A diamond lead is obviously incorrect. When both sides play the same suit, one is making an error and you assume that South knows what he is doing. That leaves you a choice between the king of clubs and a trump.

When Nico Gardener of England sat East he returned a trump. South won in dummy; led a diamond to his ace; trumped a diamond with dummy's last trump and came off dummy with a club. East rose with the ace and West played the deuce. By this time East was convinced that his partner was out of hearts so he returned a heart. West ruffed for the third defensive trick and since declarer still had to lose a diamond he was down one.

At the other table East led the king of clubs and for some reason or other West signaled come-on so East continued with the ace whereupon South pro-

Mennonite Farmer Changes Mind, to Hold on to $1,000

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP) — A Mennonite farmer, who had planned to return $1,000 he found in a box of trinkets bought for 10 cents at a public sale, has changed his mind and is going to keep the money.

Ben Zimmerman said Wednesday that when he learned the original owner of the box, Ira Stover, had no close heirs he decided to keep the money.

Zimmerman bought the trinkets last Saturday at a sale conducted by the executors of the Stover estate.

When he found the money later, he went to the estate's administrator and asked if everything in the box was his. According to Zimmerman, the administrator said yes.

"When I asked him about the money," said Zimmerman, "he didn't ask me to return it but said other money had been found in hiding places."

Beacon Singer Is Indicted, to Hear Sentence on 4th

NEW YORK (AP) — A federal court jury has convicted folk singer Pete Seeger of contempt of Congress for refusing to answer questions before the House committee on un-American activities.

The 42-year-old entertainer from Beacon, N. Y., was continued free in $1,000 bail pending sentencing next Tuesday. The maximum penalty on each count of the 10-count indictment is a year in prison and a $1,000 fine. Defense counsel Paul L. Ross announced he would appeal the verdict, returned Wednesday before Judge Thomas F. Murphy.

Seeger turned pale when he heard the verdict. His wife and his teen-age daughter and younger son were in the court room. The prosecution at the trial contended there was evidence that Seeger had used his talents to promote communist activities. The judge told the jury that the question of whether Seeger ever had been a communist was not an issue in the trial.

Seeger was called as a witness before the congressional committee during its 1955 hearing here on communist infiltration in the entertainment field. He refused to answer questions about his political beliefs and associations. He cited the First (free speech) Amendment. Seeger contended at the hearing that the questions put to him were "improper and immoral to be asked of any American."

Mansfield Is Up First Time for Area School Post

Howard Mansfield of Tillson, an independent candidate for the local board of education, asked today for a correction of a statement in The Freeman Wednesday night saying he had been an "unsuccessful candidate" for the board in 1959.

Mansfield pointed out that he has never offered as a board candidate.

Mansfield was much in the news in late April, 1956, when he protested payment of state taxes on the grounds that the state was taking money in taxation, then turning around and saying that it would give some of it back "if you do what we want you to do."

He complained at the time that the State Education Department, in his opinion, was "too dictatorial," that in one breath it talked about home rule and in another breath curtailed local independence of action and decision.

Insurgents Pick Lanigan as Next Foe of DeSapio

NEW YORK (AP) — James S. Lanigan, 42-year-old attorney, has been chosen as the insurgent Democratic candidate to oppose Carmine G. DeSapio for leadership of the first assembly district south, where Greenwich Village insurgents have vigorously been seeking his ouster.

DeSapio, Democratic national committeeman and leader of Tammany Hall, the Manhattan party organization, won by 600 votes in the last district leadership election in which about 9,000 votes were cast. He defeated Charles McGinnis, the Greenwich Village independent candidate.

Lanigan was chosen Wednesday night by a vote of 94-48 at a meeting of the Village Independent Democrats. He described the campaign against DeSapio as "a fight for the survival" of insurgent clubs throughout the city.

The meeting was attended by more than 300 persons, many of whom were non-members. Some of the members did not choose to vote for Lanigan or for his opponent, John Westergaard, a 30-year-old financial writer. The Village club claims a membership of 800.

Lanigan told the meeting: "If DeSapio wins, reform clubs throughout the city will disintegrate. If the reform movement wins, there will be a revitalization and clubs will spring up everywhere."

"This is not a local election, but citywide, statewide and nationwide in what it represents. Ours is a campaign against the most absolute boss."

Won't Win Space Race Copying Red Schools, He Says

TUSKEGEE, Ala. (AP) — A deputy assistant director of the National Science Foundation says the United States won't win the space race by copying Soviet educational tactics.

The primary concern of the National Science Foundation, said Dr. Raymond J. Seeger, is "that everyone who desires to be a scientist have an opportunity."

But he said the same opportunities should be given those who wish to be poets or musicians. He called for "equality of opportunity in all fields of endeavor—not uniformity of education."

Seeger spoke Wednesday night at a meeting of science teachers and students marking Tuskegee Institute's science emphasis week.

15 GE Officials In Bid-Rigging Have Left Firm

NEW YORK (AP) — All 15 General Electric Co. executives sentenced last month for antitrust violations have left the firm, according to a company statement.

The firm Wednesday termed the dismissals "the only course serving the best interests of the persons involved and the company."

The officials were indicted in the electrical industry price-fixing and bid-rigging case involving 44 electric firm officials and 29 companies.

Corbett Convicted Of Murder, Plans To Appeal Verdict

GOLDEN, Colo. (AP) — A jury convicted Joseph Corbett Jr. of first degree murder late Wednesday and his attorneys said promptly they would appeal the verdict and press for a new trial.

The conviction, if it stands, dooms Corbett, 32, to a life sentence in the Colorado Penitentiary.

It ended a trial of two weeks and three days in which the state contended that Corbett murdered wealthy Adolph Coors III as the climax to a half-million-dollar kidnap scheme Feb. 9, 1960.

The one-time pre-medical student blinked his eyes but otherwise showed not a flicker of emotion as the verdict was read.

Several of the eight men and four women jurors were in tears, obviously affected by the strain and emotional aspects of the trial. They deliberated 16 hours, after receiving the case Tuesday morning. The choice of acquittal was their only other option.

William H. Erickson, one of Corbett's attorneys, said he planned to file a new trial motion within the 30 days allowed by the court.

No Honeymoon Yet

BIG SPRING, Tex. (AP) — There is going to be considerable delay before Robert L. McGill and his bride get around to a honeymoon.

McGill, 34, and Miss Margaret Fay Crowley, 41, took their marriage vows at the county courthouse Wednesday with sheriff's officers as their attendants.

They talked briefly after the ceremony and guards then took McGill back to jail where he is awaiting transfer to state prison under a 12-year sentence for robbery by assault.

Some 50 lay leaders and Methodist Men's Club officers and clergy representing the Southern tier sub-district with over half of the 100 churches of the Kingston District met at the Clinton Avenue Methodist Church, this city, Wednesday evening to hear Carl E. Waite, White Plains, lay leader of the New York Conference, and William O. Brown, lay leader of the New York District, speak on Methodist Men in Action.

Mr. Waite is chairman of the Methodist Men commission of the general board of lay activities of the Methodist Church, with headquarters in Chicago, and is the deputy commissioner of the New York State Liquor Authority.

Mr. Brown, who shared the speaking program, is a Yonkers attorney and serves on the New York Conference board of lay activities and a number of church commissions.

During the program Mr. Waite pointed out that "Methodist Men is the second largest 'service' organization of men's clubs in the world, second only to Lions International." Mr. Waite is a Rotarian. "Methodist Men now number nearly 14,000 clubs," he said. He urged the men to "witness for Christ by greater service, more humble service to their organizations," and advocated a philosophy of "activation and motivation in projects, programs and committed service of Christianity." He paid special tribute to the work of the laity in the Kingston district.

Mr. Brown devoted his part of the program to organization and programming recommendations designed to assist new clubs and re-vitalize others. The talks were highlighted with charts and facts sheets.

Newton B. Ford, Kingston district lay leader, insurance broker of Windham, presided at the sub-district meeting. The Rev. George P. Werner, Kingston district superintendent, gave the invocation with Thomas W. Miller, Kingston, associate district lay leader, extending the welcome on behalf of the members of the Clinton Avenue Men's Club who were host to the gathering and provided refreshments after the session. A hymn sing was led by Rex Depew and William Yates at the piano.

Mayor Notes That Two Faiths Are Observing Feasts

Mayor Edwin F. Radel today announced closing of city offices and departments at noon tomorrow in observance of Good Friday and extended greetings to the "Jewish and Christian people of our area" in their coinciding religious observances.

The mayor said he has requested through contact with presidents of the city's business organizations the observance of Good Friday from noon to 3 p. m., by the closing of stores.

Passover, this year, he noted, covers the period of Good Friday, Holy Saturday and Easter Sunday observed by Christians. "May the joys and freedoms that are celebrated by the people of both faiths," he said, "be everlastingly enjoyed by the people of our country and by increasing numbers throughout the world."

The Passover, he added, came of the freedom from bondage gained by the Hebrews in Biblical times. Its observance this time is in the "Bar Mitzvah Year" of the State of Israel.

Only poisonous mammals are the Australian platypus and the oryx. A American short-tailed shrew.

Would Save for City Local Residents Urged to Back Artery Pay Bill

Mayor Edwin F. Radel today joined other mayors of the state in urging, through telegrams, Gov. Rockefeller's signing of an Albany measure requiring the state to pay 75 instead of 50 per cent of right-of-way acquisition costs in upstate communities for the building of arterial routes.

Such costs are now 50-50. The bill, awaiting the governor's signature, was introduced by R. Watson Pomeroy, of Wassica, and was backed by the New York State Mayors Conference. A conference official advised all mayors to wire the Governor urging him to sign the measure.

Locally, Mayor Radel noted, the Pomeroy measure, if signed, will save the city much money in meeting its share of right-of-way costs on such projects as the razing of the Washington Avenue viaduct and in the building of a new Rondout Creek Bridge. Both will involve construction of roadways within the city limits.

The city was not required to share right-of-way costs in the building of the arterial route system completed last year because it was mapped as part of an inter-state, federal road system.

Fire Interrupts Rosendale Vols Business Session

A meeting of the Town of Rosendale Volunteer Firemen's Association was delayed for more than an hour Tuesday evening when a fire call was received just as the members were beginning to take their seats shortly before 8 p. m. at the Bloomington Firehouse.

Bloomington dispatched one pumper manned by volunteers from five fire companies—Bloomington, Cottickill, Binnewater, Tillson and Rosendale.

Responds to Brush Fire

The agenda had to wait as volunteers dashed to a brush fire on the Dug Hill Road between Rosendale and Tillson. Rosendale also responded with a pumper, as did Tillson. The blaze was confined to about half an acre and was soon under control.

About 9 p. m. the meeting resumed, delegates agreeing that area road superintendents should make it a point to notify fire companies when roads are being closed for repairs or emergencies.

It was decided to equip the township citizens' band radio network with Channel 16 crystals to avoid the present jam on existing bands. The association recently purchased CB two-way "transceivers" for town companies to facilitate mutual aid calls and to gain complete communications coverage.

Each company has received its license from the FCC in Washington.

Tested Extensively

The transceivers have reportedly received extensive tests in the township and have proved worthy adjuncts to the present two-way system.

Kenneth Gordon, chief-elect of the Tillson Company, was named chairman of a committee of the chiefs of the five companies to plan an over-all mutual aid set-up for the township. The plan will be submitted to Winifred Snyder, Ulster County fire coordinator, for approval.

Herbert Faurote, association president, announced that the next drill will be conducted by Binnewater in its district sometime during April.

The next meeting of the association will be held at Cottickill Firehouse Tuesday evening, April 25.

Florida Frees 84 Collegians, Judge Admonishes Boys

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—Jailhouse doors swung open today for 84 collegians held in connection with student disorders in this resort city.

"I am releasing you so you can get at least one more day of sunshine," said Municipal Court Judge Raymond A. Doumer, who addressed the students in the jail's mess hall.

One student remained behind bars. He was George T. Dalluge, 22, senior at Mankato State College, Mankato, Minn. He was sentenced to 70 days for inciting a riot and resisting arrest.

"It is not the desire of anyone to see you lose your graduation rights," the judge said, "but you must admit that the behavior of some students left much to be desired."

Included among those released were 72 students given jail sentences and 12 awaiting arraignment. Those awaiting arraignment, who could not post bail, were freed on their own recognizance.

"I, as a citizen, am as much to blame as you are for a portion of this situation," the judge said. "We knew you were coming but I, like the rest, did not do anything to prepare for it."

"You are welcome back."

Available Sites For College Are Discussed Here

A meeting of the board of supervisor's committee on Community College met Wednesday night at the court house. The meeting was not open to the public but it is assumed the principal matter under discussion was that of availability of sites.

Meeting with the committee which consists of Roy J. Webber (R) Marletown, chairman; Supervisor Alexander Banyo (R) Ulster; Edwin C. Chase (R) Wavering; Abram F. Molyneux (R), Woodstock; John J. Gaffney (D), Lloyd and Roger Mabie (D), Esopus, was Mayor Edwin F. Radel who outlined what part the city might be able to play in the program.

It is understood several possible locations for a Community College were discussed and it is expected after an engineer's report is made, the matter of site will be submitted to the State Education Department for its consideration and recommendation.

While nothing specific came out of the meeting as to location of a college, it appears the committee is rapidly approaching the time when some recommendation may be made to the board.

Trade Commission Wary About Dairy Monopoly Ways

TRENTON, N.J. (AP)—Dairy leaders from throughout the Northeast have been told the Federal Trade Commission is increasingly wary of monopolistic practices in the industry.

Sherman R. Hill, chief of the FTC Bureau of Investigation, said Wednesday "one fourth of all our anti-monopoly trial attorneys are now working on cases involving the dairy industry."

His speech, read for him when a schedule conflict developed, opened the two-day 26th annual Northeast Dairy Conference.

At the dinner session Wednesday night, greetings were extended by Miss Bonnie Sue Houghtaling, a pretty 17-year-old girl from Swan, Iowa, making a nationwide tour as Miss American Dairy Princess. The main speaker was George Worrlow, dean of Delaware University's College of Agriculture.

Today the dairymen turn their attention to a controversial topic—marketing quotas as a device to control supply of milk.

Hill said that in America's domestic economy, "free competitive enterprise is under severe test," and the dairy industry is one major battleground.

He noted that a House small business subcommittee reported last December there is a growing concentration of power among nine large dairy firms, unfair trade practices, and price cutting. Hill said there are 30 cases of alleged restraint of trade in the dairy industry now being investigated by his office or in the courts.

Outlining a few specific cases, he said he demonstrated that the FTC is serious about protecting the free enterprise system.

Hearing Sought By Dairymen on Byproducts Price

NEW YORK (AP)—A public hearing on the prices paid for milk used in making butter, cheese and other dairy byproducts in 10 Northeastern market areas is sought by the dairymen's league.

League President Russell E. Dennis made the request Wednesday in a letter to the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

He said prices paid for the so-called "manufacturing" milk now range from $3.37 per hundred pounds ($6.5 quarts) in Boston to $2.96 in the Upper Chesapeake Bay area and Washington, D.C. Dennis noted that that type of milk brings the producers a lower price than milk used for drinking. He said he favors a high price level for the "manufacturing" milk. But he added that establishing such a level "must include consideration of conditions in all markets and the competitive relationships among them."

The proposed hearing would include the federally regulated markets of New York-New Jersey; Boston; Southeastern New England; Connecticut; Worcester, Mass.; Springfield, Mass.; Philadelphia; Wilmington, Del.; Upper Chesapeake Bay and Washington, D.C.

8 Are Dismissed For Disturbance On Ohio Campus

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP) — Eight Bowling Green State University students have been dismissed for taking part in campus demonstrations and 30 more will be questioned when they return from Easter vacation.

Those dismissed were among 43 detained by the school for a few hours Wednesday when the rest of the 6,000 students began their week's vacation after three days of demonstrations. Five were cleared and the remaining 30 were told to report back after the vacation. The university did not release any names.

Since Sunday evening the students, several times in groups of up to 2,000 have roamed the campus and downtown area, boycotted classes and burned the university's president, Ralph W. McDonald, in effigy.

The disturbance, the students claim, is against university regulations.

10, And All Healthy
The father, Raymond J. Feyre, 38, an insurance salesman, chain-smoked cigarettes, repeating: "I'm thrilled, I'm thrilled. Just think, 10 children and everybody's healthy."

The two girls and two boys were born Wednesday seven weeks prematurely.

Despite the early births, however, doctors said the quads are in good health and foresaw no difficulties in bringing their weights to normal.

Doctors said the babies will remain in incubators until they reach five pounds, expected in about two months.

First Feeding Today
Their first feedings, beginning today, were to be small doses of glucose and water. Eventually, they'll get a heavier formula.

At the hospital Wednesday night Mrs. Feyre said that except for a little tiredness she felt wonderful. She weighs 114 pounds. Her husband said he weighs 146 and stands about 5-7.

The mother of the new quads shares her hospital room with Mrs. Donald Giroux of Holyoke, who gave birth to her third child March 25.

The room is painted in quiet green and the only wall decoration is a crucifix. The hospital is operated by the Catholic Sister of Providence.

On a night table beside her bed are seven dotted plants—and an 18-inch-high trophy of brass and maple similar to those awarded champions.

Day Off for Father
Feyre said he plans to take the day off from work. "But I've got to get back Friday. After all, there are now 12 persons to feed, including my wife and me."

How will he manage on $120 a week, his salary as an insurance agent?

"I'm not really concerned," he said. "I feel everything will come out all right, financially and otherwise."

The big day began at 8:55 a.m. Wednesday when Feyre drove his wife to the hospital.

Clock Ticks, More Arrive
At 9:40 a.m., Margaret Mary was born, weighing 3 pounds, 11 ounces and measuring 17½ inches.

At 9:45 a.m., there came James Michael at 3 pounds, 5 ounces, and 16 inches long.

At 9:47 a.m. Maureen Ann was born weighing 3 pounds, 9½ ounces, and 17 inches long.

At 9:50 a.m., William Francis arrived at 3 pounds, 13 ounces and 17 inches long.

The parents, who have twins at home, had been told to expect triplets. The names of the first three babies had been chosen in advance.

The oldest Feyre child, Christine, 14, was downtown paying some bills at the time of the births.

Her father quoted her as saying later: "Well, dad, you're a big deal."

Lived Through Fire
The other Feyre children are: Kathleen, 12; Raymond and Mary 8-year-old twins; Thomas, 4 and John, 2.

The six older children were put in the temporary care of Feyre's aunt, Mrs. Joseph McKinstry, also of Holyoke.

The Feyres have been living in a five-room housing project apartment since a fire caused $9,000 damage to their own seven-room home on Feb. 7. Mrs. Feyre rescued the two younger boys from the flames. The other children were at school at the time.

Rockefeller, in signing the railroad-relief bills, pointed out that the financial aid was conditional in that railroads were committed to improve commuter service.

While the bills were "designed to alleviate immediate, clear and pressing need," they do not "offer the final solution to the commuter problem," the governor said.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market rally rolled on in heavy trading early this afternoon.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .70 at 244.5 with industrials up 1.50, rails down .10 and utilities up .30.

Gains by key issues ranged from fractions to a point or so. Prices were a little under their best at mid-day. Small losses were sprinkled through the list.

Steels, motors, utilities, oil and tobacco moved up. Rubbers and aircrafts were off slightly. Rails were mixed.

American Telephone hit another all-time high of 121½, then fell back fractionally.

Some brokers felt the market was trying to mount an assault on its all-time high, as measured by the Dow Jones industrial average, but doubted it would have the time to cover the ground on this final day of a short week.

The market is closed Good Friday.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 2.00 to 678.50.

Tighter Federal Control of Pro Boxing Is Sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn., says he fears that if heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson should lose to No. 1 contender Sonny Liston the title would "revert to mob control."

Kefauver Wednesday introduced a bill to place lifetime professional boxing under strict federal control for five years.

Patterson, in Chicago, said he thought it would be "a real good thing" to have a national boxing commissioner in the Justice Department with federal power to drive racketeers out of the sport.

However, Patterson said he planned to defend his title again not later than September, "and I still say Sonny Liston deserves a shot. I want to fight the most logical contender and he seems to be the one if things can be worked out."

Kefauver told the Senate Wednesday there is "compelling evidence that Liston was controlled by three powerful racketeers" as recently as last December.

Rip Off Lock
Entrance to the drug store had been gained by ripping off a lock on a rear door. The place had been ransacked and merchandise and money taken from an unlocked safe and the cash register was recovered.

The indictment against the five men was one of nine open indictments reported to Justice on Wednesday.

After the final session of the March grand jury.

Six sealed indictments were also handed up together with four dismissals. All indictments were transferred to County Court for disposition. None of the defendants named was arraigned in court. Assistant District Attorney Harry Gold presented the report and moved the cases to County Court.

Moving Defense Sites Scored by 9 State GOPers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Moving defense establishments out of areas of high unemployment, as at Rome, N.Y., would be subject to review, under a provision of the administration's depressed-areas bill approved by the House.

But nine New York Republicans, who voted against the bill Wednesday labeled it a "cruel hoax and deception on the unemployed."

They said it would harm, rather than help, the Empire State.

Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, D-N.Y., sponsored the amendment to empower the secretary of commerce to study the economic impact that closing of a military installation would have on an area with 6 per cent or more of unemployment.

See Opening Wedge
Without the amendment, Stratton said, an area like Rome would not qualify for immediate aid under the bill, although more than 6 per cent of the labor force was jobless.

The nine Republicans attacked the bill in a joint statement. Rep. Carlenton J. King, R-N.Y., took a separate stand but also voted against the bill, calling it "the opening wedge in a plan to eventually control every phase of our lives."

The joint statement was issued by Reps. William E. Miller, John R. Pillion, Harold C. Ostergard, Jeffica Weiss, R. Walter Riehlman, Howard W. Robinson, Charles E. Goodell, John Taber and Frank J. Becker.

They said the measure would encourage pirating of New York industry by other areas and encourage construction of plants in the South.

King also said pirating would result.

Stratton's amendment, adopted by voice vote, is similar to one defeated by the Senate before it passed the overall measure, which now goes back to the Senate.

In a House speech, Stratton said closing the Rome Air Materiel Area at Griffiss Air Force Base only would aggravate a situation the depressed-areas bill was designed to relieve.

Six-Month Delay
The Air Force earlier this week postponed for at least six months any decision to close the procurement center at Rome, which employs more than 6,000 civilians.

Meanwhile, Rep. Alexander Pirnie, R-N.Y., suggested Griffiss as the site for a defense electronics management center. He made the proposal in a letter to Air Force Secretary Eugene M. Zuckert.

The Defense Department is studying the possibility of designating one service or agency to purchase all electronic and electrical equipment for all three armed services.

In another development, Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel, R-Calif., renewed his attack on a bill sponsored by New York congressmen to channel military contracts into areas of high unemployment.

"Our national welfare," Kuchel told the Senate, "cannot tolerate having defense procurement made a political football."

New York and California congressmen long have been at odds on defense contracts. New Yorkers contend California gets too large a slice of the business.

In their criticism of the depressed-areas bill, the nine New York Republicans also claimed the measure would waste billions of dollars by spreading aid politically across the nation instead of pinpointing it in chronically depressed areas.

Po'keepsie Man
lin, Francis Doerr and Jack Brophy, and Sgt. James Morris and Patrolmen Robert Berberich and George Metzger.

Descriptions of two men who entered the store and fled with $105 were given police, and search of the area began immediately.

Chief Martin said the grocer told police he was in the store when two men entered. One of the pair ordered a pack of cigarettes and as Luty turned to the cigarette rack, one of the men grabbed him by the neck and threw him to the floor.

Martin said the other man opened the cash register and took $105. Then both men fled and Luty immediately notified Lieut. George Traver at police headquarters.

McClinton was committed to the Dutchess County jail in lieu of bail.

Police said Luty was not injured in the tussle.

Village Budget
for the new fire truck and fire station of C. A. Lynch Fire Company on the southside will start this year.

The estimated revenue from receipts of parking meters is short $4,000. To date only $6,100 has been collected toward the estimate of $10,000 placed in the 1960 budget.

Departments Not Named
4. Pay raises for the majority of village employees. This could mean raises for village police and members of the public works department, however a spokesman for the board said he could not name specific departments.

The preliminary budget will be presented to the Village Board at the organizational meeting Monday, April 3. At that time a public hearing date on the budget will be scheduled.

Estimated revenue for last year's budget of $239,260 was $78,642, which left $160,618 to be raised by taxation.

156th Artillery Inspection Held

Officers and men of the First Howitzer Battalion, 156th Artillery, New York Army National Guard, received their annual general inspection by the Inspector General, First United States Army, on Monday and Tuesday of this week at the Kingston and Poughkeepsie armories.

The inspection was conducted by unit, with the administrative phase being held in the afternoon and the personnel and training inspection at night. General administration including records, reports, procedures, libraries, security, supplies and equipment and accounting methods, was thoroughly checked and graded. Personnel in ranks, their lockers and training in classes received careful scrutiny.

Announcement of ratings will be officially made at a later date.

Lt. Col. Arthur H. Marx, commanding officer, expressed his confidence in the ability of the command to function well in whatever mission it is assigned.

Hitchhiking GI Killed in Crash Of Two Vehicles

CANAJOHARIE, N. Y. (AP)—A 22-year-old hitchhiking soldier was killed today when two tractor trailers collided a mile east of here on the Thruway.

State Police identified the victim as Pvt. Howard Reuven of University Heights, Ohio. He was riding in one of the trucks.

He was stationed at Headquarters Battery, Fort Banks, Wintthrop, Mass., and apparently was hitchhiking home on furlough, police said.

Traffic in the westbound lane was blocked for several hours after the accident.

Robert Holden, 43, of Fort Dodge, Iowa, one of the truck drivers, was reported in fair condition at St. Mary's Hospital, Amsterdam.

Suggests Utility Growth Stock for Education Fund

Q "I want to purchase a growth stock for my grandson's education fund and add to it on his birthday. He's 12 now. We prefer a listed stock as it will add interest for him if he can watch the changes. Would you suggest a utility?"

A "I believe I know of a utility which not only fills the bill on all counts but serves your home area as well. Montana-Dakota Utilities (NYSE) appears to have the ingredients for strong future growth, both from rapidly expanding demand for electric power and from its valuable oil reserves in the Williston Basin and other areas. Earnings have been moving up sharply. The shares have doubled in value over the past decade and should continue to climb."

Q "What is your opinion of my Lock Joint Pipe Company Shares?"

A "Good. This big domestic producer of concrete pipe recently received its largest contract ever—100 miles of pipe for a big water system in Oklahoma. Unfilled orders are up substantially and the dividend was increased last December. Hold for higher levels."

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

NEW YORK (AP)—The opening of the West during the last four decades of the 19th century resembled scarcely at all the glamorous, adventurous picture painted nightly on the TV screen. In "The Real West," an NBC documentary Wednesday night, old photographs and other documents from the period, cut through the myths and the legends.

Accompanied with an effective narration by Gary Cooper, they presented a picture of hardship, tragedy and rowdiness along the trails and in the cowtowns. They also blasted the tradition of the heroic fast-guns.

"A lot of cowhands carried pistols—usually rusty," reported Cooper, "but few of them could grab fast enough to hit anything but their own toes." "The Eagle," with Randolph Valentino and Vilma Banky,

But Masterson's favorite motto was, "Take your time, and don't miss." Wyatt Earp never was anything more important than Assistant Marshal and his best pal was a psychopathic dentist, Doc Holiday. "Wild Bill" Hickok established his marshal's office in back of a sporting house and Billy the Kid—William Bonney Jr.—was a "a homicidal moron" from the slums of New York.

NBC's Project 20 staff worked through some 60,000 old documents to produce the hour-long program. It was effectively put together and the script by Philip Reisman Jr. was a masterpiece of taut, responsible commentary.

Hell on Map, But Paradise Is Misplaced

PARADISE, Mich. (AP)—Michigan Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie put Hell on the map this year, but misplaced Paradise.

Mackie said the department decided to put Hell—in southern Michigan—on the state's official highway map because so many persons wrote asking how to get to the tiny community.

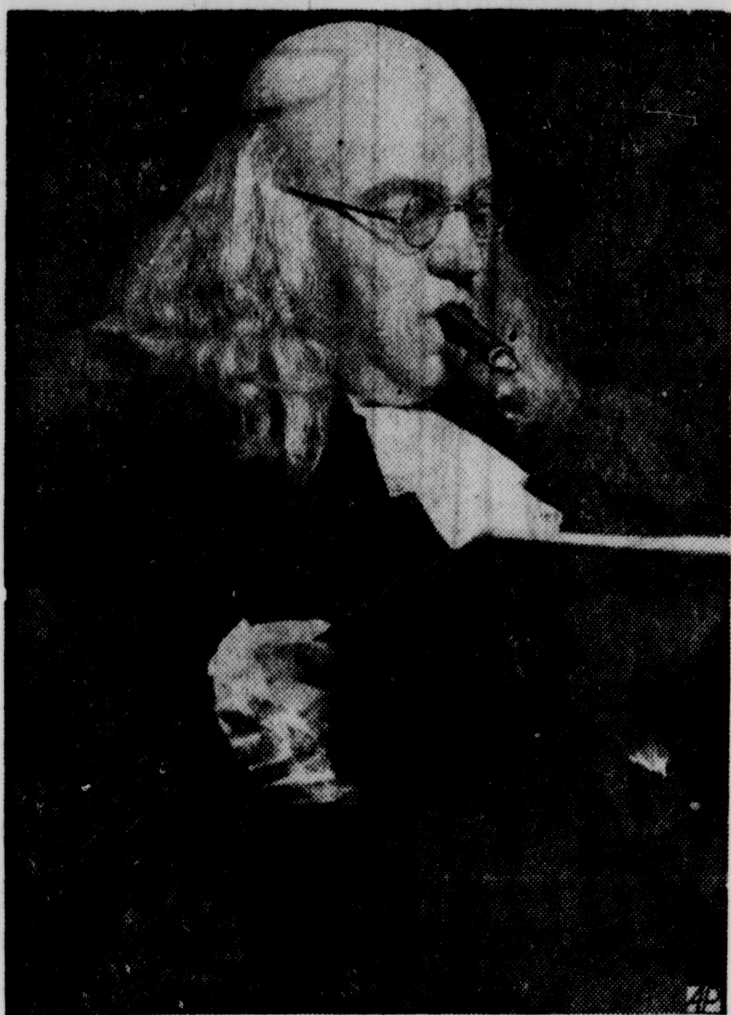

But then the department released recommended a visit to Paradise, which is located in the Upper Peninsula's Luce County.

Since Paradise is in Chippewa County, jesters here have some suggestions about where the highway department can go—using the official map to find it, of course.

Joshua was booked on charges of juvenile delinquency, violation of the Sullivan (anti-weapons) law, and felonious assault.

Both Joshua and Booker are Negroes.

Why We Say --

IN THE SOUP

HOSPITALS: This expression was started by a newspaperman, James Greenwood, in London. Investigating the hospital free ward setup, he wrote that one patient was bathed in the same water used for the person before him. When it came to the last person the bath looked more like soup than water. The expression became popular immediately after.

Named Treasurer For 1961 County Cancer Crusade

JAMES J. RUA

The appointment of James J. Rua, 96 Jervis Street as treasurer for the 1961 Ulster County Cancer Crusade was announced today by Clyde Wonderly, general chairman.

A cashier at the Rondout National Bank for the past 34 years, Rua has served as treasurer for the Cancer Crusade for the last four years. Born in East Kingston, and a graduate of the Moran-Spencer School of Business.

He is a member of the committee on savings and management and operations of the savings and mortgage division of the American Bankers Association.

Rua is active in East Kingston Rod and Gun Club, the Loyal Order of Moose and the Marble-town Sportsmen's Club.

"The combined slogans of 'Guard Your Family' and 'Fight Cancer With a Checkup and Check' sums up the cancer problem and what to do about it," said Rua in discussing the Cancer Crusade fund raising plans. Two out of three families in Ulster County will eventually be struck by cancer and regular health checks is the best protection against the disease, he said.

Labor Critical Of Wharton Vote, He Gives Stand

A station wagon with signs protesting Congressman J. Ernest Wharton's vote against the Kennedy administration's minimum wage bill, which was defeated last Friday in the House of Representatives by a single vote, 186 to 185, was cruising the streets of Kingston Wednesday.

It was reportedly sponsored by the Mid-Hudson AFL-CIO Council, with headquarters in Hudson.

The signs were critical of Wharton's vote against the administration's $1.25 minimum wage bill, claiming that it was the vote of Wharton, representing the 29th Congressional District, which defeated the measure.

Bernhardt Kramer, who is Wharton's local representative, said today that Wharton supported a Republican-backed compromise bill calling for a $1.15 minimum wage for inter-state workers.

Wharton, he explained, disagrees with the philosophy of the administration bill which would have established a $1.25 minimum wage for intra-state (within the state) workers. Kramer explained that Wharton contends that it is the province of the state to fix minimum wages within its own boundaries, not the business of the federal government. The substitute $1.15 bill will affect 1.4 million workers, Kramer pointed out.

Kingston Troop T. J. Crowley arrested Vedder for involvement in the theft of a sump pump from the premises of Eveready Beverage Distributors Inc., Centerville.

Craig Smith of Windemere reported to Saugerties village police early today that the car he was driving struck and killed a small deer on Route 212 about 2000 feet west of Holiday Inn in the Town of Saugerties.

According to Sgt. John Keeley, Smith said the deer was crossing the highway in front of his car. Sgt. Keeley notified Town Constable Herbert Hom-mell, who disposed of the carcass.

Catholic Charity Family Service Aided 1,812 Here

Over 25,000 families in varying degrees of physical, economic, emotional and mental distress were aided by New York Catholic Charities last year, it was reported today by the Very Rev. Monsignor James T. McDonnell and the Rev. Robert A. Ford, co-directors of the Family Services Department. The report was issued in conjunction with the 42nd annual fund appeal of the organization which is now in progress.

Catholic Charities Family Service maintains an office in Ulster County located in this city, which last year served 533 families comprising 1,812 individuals. Expenditures were $19,816.

Programs aimed at keeping families intact and children out of institutional care absorbed by far the largest share of the funds contributed to Catholic Charities last year, the report notes. Listed among the threats to family integrity and stability encountered by the department last year were alcoholism, irresponsibility, immaturity, unreasonable attitudes and selfishness, which were described in the report as "far more devastating blows to the marital union than external pressures."

"While there is not an answer to every human problem," the report continues, "there are far more answers than many people realize. This is particularly true in the area of personal counseling by competent, experienced social service counselors."

Ten affiliated homes for the aging provided housing, medical care and rehabilitation for 2,447 elderly men and women but continued to have long waiting lists.

The Family Service report concluded with a review of the rising wave of inter-family problems being brought about by the great migration to suburbia and beyond, which have become an increasing source of concern to its nine branch offices serving the area from Westchester to Ulster Counties. The report noted that the stress of adjustment to changed social and economic conditions in sprawling new communities has left casualties among spouses, children and the aged. Solution of these problems, it was pointed out, is complicated by lack of early recognition in the midst of change.

Aid for Playwrights

New York (AP) — Backstage crafts are being asked by the New Dramatists Committee to help finance the training of new writers. "Without the playwright we would all have to look for other vocations," Producer Alfred de Liagre Jr., told a meeting of set builders, lighting experts, designers and costumers. Howard Lindsay, a founder of the dramatists group, said script output is at low ebb. The committee fosters playwrighting with an annual program of guidance and advice for selected candidates.

Time Spent With Child Best To Cut JD, 1st Baptists Told

An unforgettable 12 weeks as interim chaplain at the National Training School for Boys in Washington, D. C., formed the background of a talk given by the Rev. Roy A. Hassel to members of the Men's Club of First Baptist Church Wednesday night.

The Rev. Mr. Hassel, pastor of Trinity Methodist Church, spoke on the subject "The Christian Concern for the JD and used his experiences at the training school to highlight his interesting address.

He pointed out that the Washington prison for boys, a former farm, contains about 450 inmates, ranging in age from 11½ to 19 with all states of the union—including Hawaii and Alaska—represented.

The speaker, referring to an often presented question, said it was difficult to pin-point the reason why these boys are in prison.

He added that no two are alike and there is no absolute rule to cover every situation. The Rev. Mr. Hassel pointed to a recent magazine article as perhaps coming closer to the real truth than any other—that some parents spend anything on a child, except time.

Can't Buy Good Life

"We must realize," the Rev. Mr. Hassel cautioned, that "the more time spent with children would certainly cut the JD rate. We can't buy their way to a good life.

Opportunities Galore
The downtown cleric, whose appointment to his present charge was announced Sept. 24, 1960, said the Washington prison for boys offers many advantages to those who would see the right way. He listed some of these as a fine high school education, an IBM shop, masonry, shoe repair, barber shop and many other fields of training.

"There are opportunities galore," he reminded his listeners. He added that all the boys in the prison are not stupid . . . far from this fact. He cited one particular case where a boy, with an IQ of 135, was met with stiff resentment. Other boys have average IQs of 60 to 90, the speaker added.

The Rev. Mr. Hassel spoke at length on one particular case of a youth of 17 who was sent to the Washington training school after a desperado spree in several states. The speaker said it took him four weeks to gain the confidence of this youth who, when he entered the prison, boasted of murdering a man—but later recanted this admission. Finally, after 10 weeks of continued talks with the youth, the Rev. Mr. Hassel explained, the boy admitted his mistakes and sought counseling.

Find Better Life: Aim

Concluding his talk the Rev. Mr. Hassel said the work of a chaplain in this training—as in others—is no easy task but that the dedicated chaplain is anxious to offer a better life to these youth. These youth, the speaker stressed, need help in order to find themselves and to find the need of God in themselves.

Ladies Night April 26
The Rev. Mr. Hassel was introduced by the pastor of the host church, the Rev. Harold J. Stephan.

Preceding the speaking portion of the program ladies of the Women's Council served a ham dinner.

During the business meeting later, presided by George W. Chase, president, additional plans were made for the annual Ladies' Night program on Wednesday, April 26. A catered roast beef dinner will be served that night at 6:30 followed by a play presented by members of the church. Rehearsals are now underway. Tickets for the Ladies' Night event will be available by the weekend, according to Arthur T. Pedersen, ticket committee chairman.

QUICK LUNCH TREATS

with Grandma Brown's BAKED BEANS

Quick, delicious, and energy-packed lunches come easy for you when you prepare them with Grandma Brown's Baked Beans. As soon as you open the can, you will see that these beans are completely different. They've been baked, slowly and carefully, in small open pans—the old-fashioned way. Their flavor hasn't been drowned in tomato sauce. That's why you can let your imagination roam. Mix in bits of ham, bacon, or salt pork for a tempting luncheon casserole. Or treat your family to one of these imaginative luncheon suggestions:

BEANZA PIE

Ingredients: 1 (1 lb. 6 oz.) can Grandma Brown's Home Baked Beans; 3 hamburger rolls; ½ cup tomato paste; ½ cup water; 6 slices Mozzarella or American cheese; 2 teaspoons crushed oregano; 3 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese; 3 tablespoons salad oil.

Split rolls, spread each half with a heaping tablespoon of Grandma Brown's Beans. Top with a slice of cheese and cover with tomato paste which has been mixed with ½ cup water. Sprinkle oregano, Parmesan cheese and salad oil evenly over the top of each pie.

Place under broiler 4 inches from source of heat or in preheated 400° F. oven until cheese is melted and beans are hot. Serves 6.

Note: A pizza prepared mix can be used instead of tomato paste.

OPEN SANDWICH

Toast bread. Place a heaping tablespoonful of Grandma Brown's Baked Beans over the toast, and then place grated or sliced American cheese and bacon slices over the beans. Top with half slices of lemon and broil slowly until bacon is crisp and cheese melted. Garnish with pickle and serve at once.

BEEF 'N' BEANS

Brown dried-beef slices in butter. Cover slice of bread with beef slices, then a layer of Grandma Brown's Baked Beans, then another layer of beef slices. Serve as a sandwich, with pickle.

To Help Grant, Fund

Several hundred people are expected to attend the ball. Proceeds of the ball will be used to provide for continuation of the Guild's annual grand scholarship to a deserving Ulster County high school senior and to provide also for a Children's Vacation Fund which would send five needy children in this area to a summer camp for two weeks each.

Entries in the Page One Queen contest must be residents of Ulster County, single, and between 16 and 24. Girls desiring application blanks may write to Miss Joan Woinoski, Page One Queen Committee, Box 153, Rondout Station, Kingston, or submit the following information: Name, address, telephone number, parents' names and address, date of birth, schools attended, activities, interests, honors, hobbies and other pertinent details.

The Roman amphitheater at Arles, southern France, still is used for spectacles.

Uneasy Quiet Faces Miss Capital City

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Mississippi's capital city faced an uneasy quiet today after club-wielding policemen accompanied by trained dogs waded into a crowd of 100 Negroes outside a courtroom Wednesday.

The police action preceded the trial of nine Negro college students charged with breach of the peace for a sit-in demonstration last Monday at a for-whites-only public library. They were convicted and drew $100 fines and 30-day suspended jail sentences.

Dogs Bite Some

The nine, all students at Tougaloo Southern Christian College on the northern outskirts of Jackson, staged the state's first mass anti-segregation demonstration.

A crowd of Negroes, many students or faculty members at three Negro colleges in the area—

Jackson State and Campbell—gathered outside the city court building before the hearing. As the defendants started up the steps of the building, the spectators began clapping and singing. An officer said: "That's it! Move 'em out! Get 'em!" Police moved quickly into the Negro group, swinging their sticks and shoving. The German shepherd dogs lunged at the people.

The younger Negroes quickly scattered through a parking lot to safety, but some of the slower ones were clubbed on the head and back. The dogs bit and ripped the clothing of several persons.

Chief of Police M. B. Pierce said G. W. (Red) Hydrick, 55, a Rankin County white bootlegger, was charged with assault and battery and carrying a concealed weapon after he pistol-whipped Thomas Armstrong during the melee. Hydrick was the only person arrested.

Armstrong, a Negro who writes for a Jackson newspaper and does free-lance photography, was chased from in front of the building before he was attacked by Hydrick.

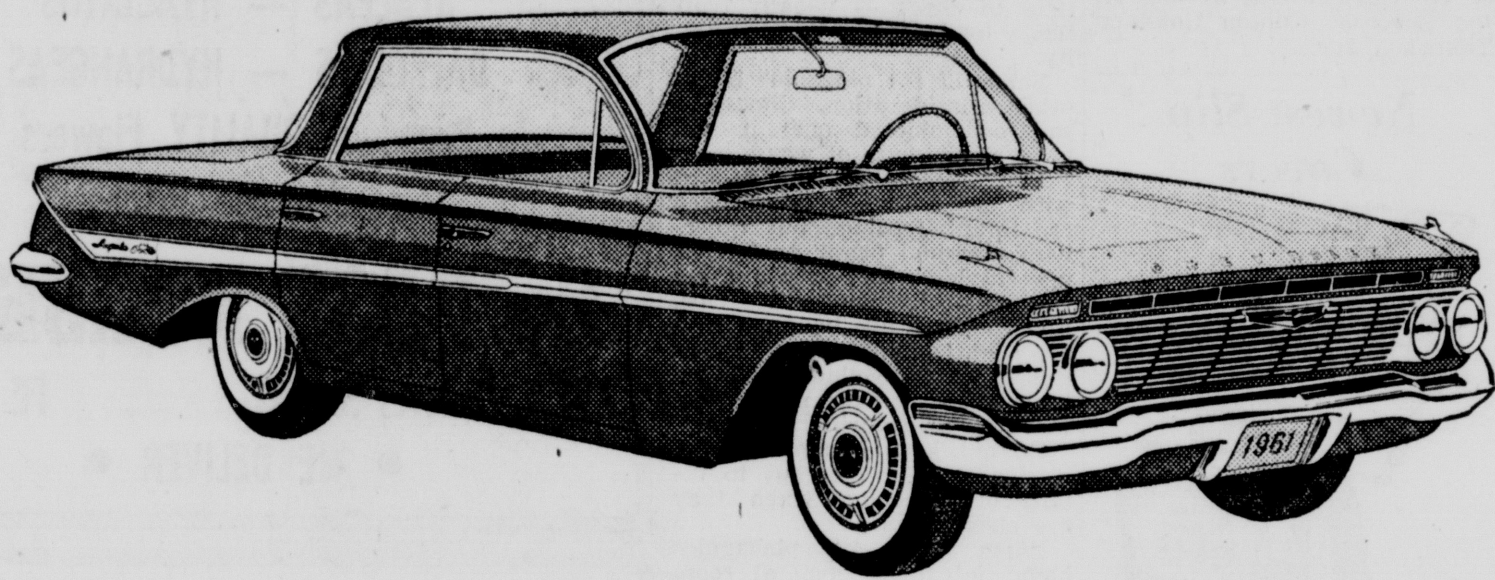

NAACP Hits Act

Police ordered the white people in the area to move out, but did not strike them.

"Call off the dogs. Slavery is over," the president of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People wired Gov. Ross Barnett.

NAACP leader Roy Wilkins protested the police action. The small court room was jammed during the hearing. Negroes sat on one side, whites on the other. The defendants sat silently on the first two rows in the Negro section.

Concert Pianist Is Scheduled April 15 For Benefit Here

Henry L. Scott, the concert pianist whose "Concerto for Fun" will be presented at the Kingston High School auditorium on Saturday, April 15, is continually being plagued by parents and students with questions about early piano training. In answer to these questions Scott says there is no substitute for a classical music training. However, the student who wishes to make a profession of music should be trained in popular styles and rhythm along with the classical studies because, contrary to popular belief, music of all kinds is compatible, and a fine artist can interpret both popular and classical music.

Scott also says students should not be forced to practice more than a half hour daily when beginning and should work up to one hour by the second year. For the serious student, two hours daily should be enough during high school years.

"Although I learned my scales as a student, I never found it necessary to spend long hours in the practice of scales or arpeggios to develop technique. I believe great technical facility can be attained through the intensive practice of the composition itself," the pianist concludes.

Scott, who is "one of the funniest men in America" can play the classics straight and with his own "variations" but he's a pianist too. His program is full of surprises. Thanks to the generous sponsorship of the local coin machine members of the New York State Operator's Guild, the proceeds of the concert will go to the Ulster County Unit of the American Cancer Society. Jack Wilson, president of the Guild says: "This is family entertainment in its best sense."

Ulster Man Has Pharmacist License

Downtown Firm Adds More Space

Construction is under way, it was learned today, on an addition to the downtown building of Kingston Laundry, Inc.

The new section at the rear of the building at 79 Broadway will be 40 by 100 feet. Richard M. Kalish, president of the corporation, which now is combined with the Thomsons Laundry Service Corp., 243 Clinton Avenue, said the added floor space is needed because of a growing volume of business.

Land on the Post Street side of the building was acquired for the addition which will facilitate truck operations to and from the rear of the plant.

Footings are in for the structure, which is being built by Joseph Schatzel and Son. Its estimated cost as shown in the filing for a building permit is $12,000.

Bananas and Pineapples

March through May are months to shop for bananas and pineapples, two fresh tropical fruits that prove plentiful in early spring when other fresh fruits are generally scarce. The citrus fruit season has begun to wane and the season fruits, such as berries and cherries, has not yet arrived.

Banana prices have remained about the same for 14 years but prices for fresh pineapple fluctuate in and out of season. Lowest prices came during April, the height of the season.

Bananas. You may expect the quality of bananas to be quite standard unless the fruit has been mishandled. The fruit is carefully inspected in the tropics and again upon its arrival in port.

Because bananas ripen quickly, the retailer buys them partly ripe — when the tips are green and the pulp is still fairly hard. He thus assures offering shoppers bananas in sound, firm condition.

Pineapples. Fresh pineapples belie their sturdy look; they are quite perishable and easily damaged. For this reason, most of the fruit shipped to our markets is cut when it is green in color, yet fully mature. Shoppers may have noted when choosing pineapple that the base has a breaking of color — a change that spreads gradually over the entire fruit to complete its ripeness.

Fruit experts say a ripe pineapple in good condition looks fresh and clean and has a distinctive dark orange-yellow color, combined with a fragrant odor. The eyes or diamond-shaped section are flat and almost hollow. Weight is another item to check — usually fruit heavy for its size is best in quality.

Shape of the pineapple is another consideration. Choose a square-shouldered one; it will have a minimum of waste.

Fully ripe bananas flecked with brown are recommended for infant feeding; but otherwise, personal flavor preference may decide whether you serve the fruit fully ripe or less ripe. For cooking, use bananas that are slightly under-ripe — green tipped or all-yellow with no brown flecks on the peel. These will stay firm during cooking.

Do not keep bananas in the refrigerator... except to retard over-ripening when they are already ripe.

When you get pineapples home, let them ripen at room temperature. You can tell when the pineapple is ripe by plucking a green leaf from its crown. Leaves pluck easily from the fully ripe fruit.

When refrigerating fresh pineapple, remember that the aroma spreads through the box. Hence wrap the fruit in foil or place it in a plastic bag until ready to use. Keep cut or prepared pineapple in a covered container.

At the Markets

April Plentiful Foods as announced by the U. S. Department of Agriculture for Northeastern United States include: Turkeys — Your choice for Easter might well be turkey, as this is the year for the large birds. Farmers expect to produce and market about 20 per cent more than a year ago. Most of the increase will be in the heavy types — both white and bronze.

Canned Freestone Peaches — Stocks of canned freestone peaches are at a record high level, 7 per cent larger than a year ago. The heaviest supply situation is for those packed in the consumer size, No. 2 1/2 can, which accounts for three-fourths the pack. Bargain prices may be expected for freestone as packers and distributors attempt to clear canned stocks by the end of the current season on June 1.

Status Seekers' Bargain: Kennedy's Old House

BY RUTH MILLETT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

If the home has become America's No. 1 status symbol—as the experts say it has—a rare bargain in "homes for sale" was offered recently in Washington, D. C.

According to a news item the Georgetown house of President and Mrs. Kennedy was placed on the market. When America's first couple bought the house in 1957 they paid $78,000 to call it home.

It was said to be for sale for a mere $105,000—and cheap at the price for anyone looking for the ultimate in status symbols. How much more in status could you get for a $27,000 mark-up than the former address of the man who just moved into the White House?

I haven't seen the house, but even if the roof leaks and the doors stick I say it's still a steal at the price.

And just think—the new occupants won't have to do any redecorating.

If saucy little Caroline left any fingerprints on the walls they'll be a conversation piece.

If a guest doesn't approve of the decor the new mistress of the house can say nonchalantly, "Well, it isn't what I would have chosen. But we didn't think it would be tactful to change everything. Don't you agree?"

Boy, oh boy! Talk about status symbols. Where else could any status-seeking couple get so much for their money?

The Mature Parent

BY MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Children's Insults Bounce Off the Joy-Insulated

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The telephone rings. Your husband's voice says, "Peg?" It tells you that his firm's senior partner has given him tickets for tonight's performance of "The Sound of Music." You are to be beautiful. You are to make the 4:55 into town in time for a leisurely dinner. You'd better get right to work on the baby-sitter problem. Remember, you're to be beautiful and come straight to his office.

Happy, full of delighted anticipation, feeling yourself loved and important, you arrange for the baby-sitter. Then, running out to the front yard where the child of the man who loves you is building a snow castle, you cry, "Billy, lunch! Hurry up! Come in and get your face washed."

Your son turns toward you, his four-year-old face rosy and smudged in the frame of his red woolen cap. He sticks out his tongue at you. He scrambles to his feet and shouts, "Go away, you big fat dope — you dopey!"

You laugh. Running down the porch steps, you seize your outrageous child. "Dopey, am I?" you retort. "Well, I'm smart enough to grab you like this and carry you right into the house for lunch! My, what a dirty face . . .!" And caught up on the wave of your invulnerable joy in yourself, Billy starts laughing with you. Both of you know that the "dopey" business is over.

But sometimes we are not full of joy in ourselves. Then we are frightened by our outrageous child. We become severe, constrained. We try to remember what the child guidance books say about not taking little children's insults seriously. We may punish Billy. Whatever we do, we are uncertain of its rightness. Later we say worriedly to Billy's father, "Where did he pick up such language? Where did he learn to stick out his tongue?"

Nobody can really tell up how to deal with the startling words flung at us by little children because nobody can tell us how to feel joy in ourselves. No child training expert can give us that priceless confidence in ourselves that makes Billy's "big fat dopey" seem, not serious and insulting, but so ridiculous that he has to laugh at it, too.

Yet it always is joy in ourselves that is the answer. Fat old dope" fails in its purpose when it meets this resisting joy. And Billy discards it as a weapon that doesn't work.

Officers Leon Fitzgerald and Lewis Keator investigated.

COFFEE KEEPS HER AWAKE

Q: When invited to someone's house for the evening and the hostess serves coffee and cake later on, is it proper to ask if one might have tea instead of coffee? I never drink coffee late at night as it keeps me awake. I would very much appreciate your answering this question for me.

A: Correctly, you say. "No thank you" when the coffee is proffered to you, adding, "I wish I could drink it but it keeps me awake." Your hostess then, if she has it, will probably offer you caffeine-free coffee, tea or something else she does have.

A Friend of the Bridegroom's Father

Q: My nephew was married recently. His mother (my sister) died several years ago. The bridegroom's father has been seeing a woman friend quite steadily for the past six months. They are not engaged, but I do believe they will marry some day. At the wedding, she was seated in the front pew beside my brother-in-law and at the reception she was seated next to him at the family table. I thought she had no right to either of these places and that it showed very bad taste. I would very much like to have your opinion on this.

A: If their engagement had been announced, her proper place would have been beside your brother-in-law, but as it was not announced she should have been seated with the other guests.

A Junior's Proper Initials

Q: I am going to give my fiancé gold cuff links for his birthday. I would like to have these marked but am not sure of the correct way to do it. My fiancé is a junior and I have been wondering if it is necessary to include the suffix after his initials. Will you please advise me?

A: Correctly, the Jr. is included, and if he has only two initials there is no reason to omit it, but if you find that three initials and Jr. will look too crowded, you may leave it off.

Troop 6 Scouts Court of Honor Featured Film

A special feature at the March Court of Honor of Boy Scout Troop 6, First Baptist Church, was the presentation of a film on Civil Defense which was followed by a discussion period led by Charles Arnold, deputy director of the Ulster County Civil Defense Organization.

The evening's program was opened with a flag ceremony by the Buccaneer Patrol. After the scout oath and candle lighting, Donald Korchowsky of the Beaver Patrol, in the presence of his parents, was given the Tenderfoot Investiture by Scoutmaster Edward Safford.

Second Class badges were presented to Bruce Giacomo and Robert Dunbar. The scouts in turn pinned miniature emblems on their mothers. Assistant Scoutmaster David Eighmey presented Star Scout Bruce Safford the merit badge for citizenship in the Home, and the 50th anniversary achievement strip.

The civil defense film which followed the patrol business meetings stressed the use of fallout shelters and gave vivid illustrations of how the air warning system operated in coordination with civil defense facilities. It was pointed out in the discussion period that in a location such as Kingston the Boy Scouts would always be asked for assistance during any disaster because of their first aid knowledge and general willingness to help others in time of need. The meeting was closed with the Scoutmaster's Minute and benediction given by Asst. Scoutmaster Eighmey.

Another March meeting consisted of a general swim period at the YMCA where some scouts passed their first class requirements and others made good progress in learning to swim. Troop 6 also held a joint game night with Troop 20 of Hurley at the Hurley Fire hall. A knot tying relay and a medicine ball game provided the main game fun. Scoutmaster Loren Sheldon of Troop 20 led the closing ceremony which ended with taps on the bugle.

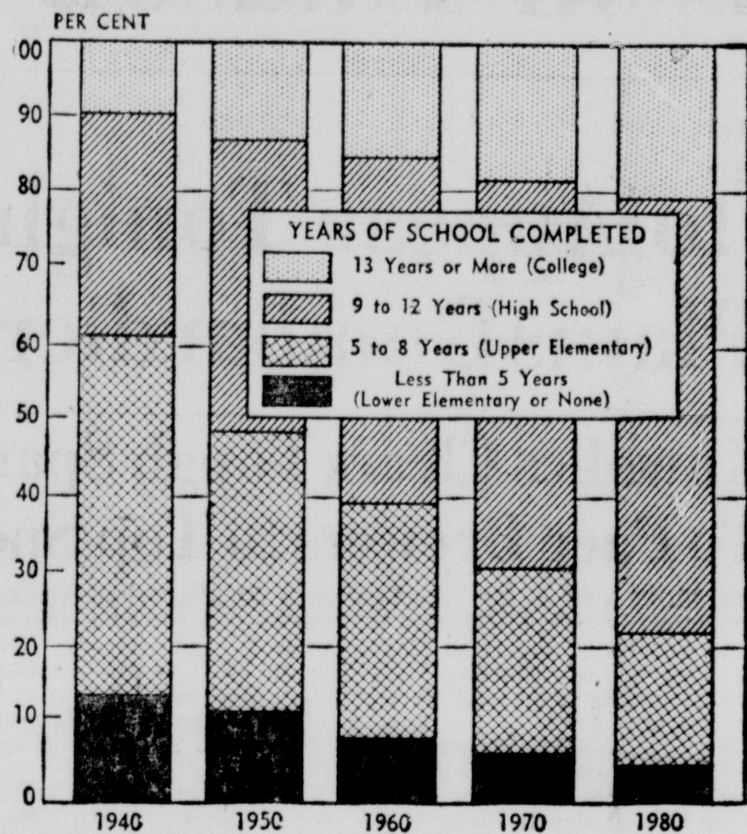

Plans for April include a combination family night and camp promotion program with slides of Camp Tri-Mount. Scout Commissioner Harold Harrison will hold the annual uniform inspection and a court of honor will be held for second class scouts. It is hoped that the troop auxiliary will also hold an organizational meeting with projects ahead of them such as providing a 50-star flag for the troop and assisting with refreshments at various occasions. Plans for a Father-Scout-Committee Good Turn will be formulated at the committee meeting and steps for charter renewal of the troop will be initiated.

Approval Given The Extension U. S. Sugar Act

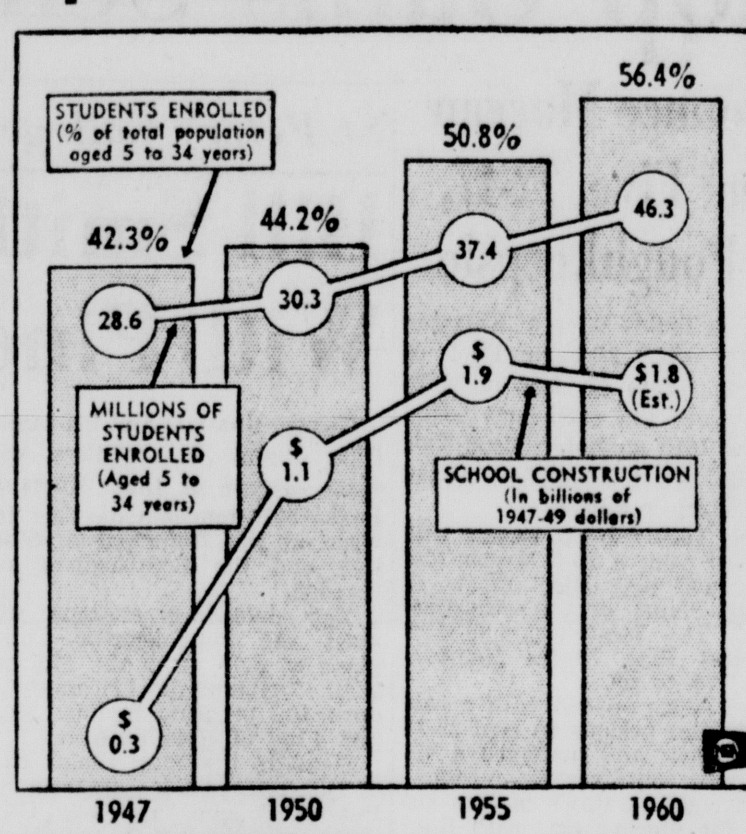

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has approved a 15-month extension of the Sugar Act after another sharp Senate-House skirmish ending in an administration victory on the legislation.

The controversial bill finally was cleared to the White House Wednesday night in time for many of the members of Congress to hurry out of town for an Easter vacation. Kennedy will have to sign the measure by Thursday.

patterns in the education picture—

LEAP IN LEARNING—Changing patterns in U.S. education are reflected in chart above. It shows the years of school completed by all persons 25 years old or over. In 1940, the greatest percentage—about 61 per cent—had no more than an elementary education. Less than 30 per cent had a high school education and only 10 per cent of the population had at least one year of college. Last year, about 45 per cent were in the high school and 15 per cent in the college classifications. Chart also shows the expected changes for the next 20 years. Data from U.S. Census Bureau.

THE SCHOOL STORY—More than 46 million Americans between the ages of five and 34 were enrolled in school in 1960. These 46.3 million students represented 56.4 per cent of the total population in this age group. By contrast, in 1950, 30.3 million—or only 44.2 per cent—were attending kindergarten, elementary school, high school or college. School construction (in 1947-49 dollars) dropped slightly from a record high of $2 billion in 1957 to an estimated $1.8 billion in 1960. Data from National Industrial Conference Board.

But Trouble May Brew Yet in Congress

'Quiet Please' Technique Brings Good Dividends to Regime of JFK

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) —The "quiet, please" technique of the Kennedy administration has paid pretty good dividends so far at home and abroad, in handling both Congress and the Russians. Latest home example: The comfortable House vote Wednesday for President Kennedy's program to help depressed areas. This about clinches it for him. The Senate already had passed a similar measure.

Avoids Loud Noises
And this week, too, he seems to have persuaded the Russians to cool off a bit on Laos.

In foreign affairs Kennedy, like President Eisenhower, has avoided loud noises, except that in Eisenhower's case his secretary of state, John Foster Dulles, made enough noise for both of them. Kennedy's secretary of state, Dean Rusk, just the opposite from Dulles, is letting the President do the main talking in foreign affairs. And Kennedy, while plenty tough, has pitched everything in a low key.

In one important way in dealing with Congress Kennedy is following President Eisenhower's policy, although it seems to be natural with him anyway. But in one important way he isn't. Eisenhower avoided name-calling, personal attacks, and fights with senators and representatives, even when they were undercutting him. So does Kennedy.

There the similarity ends. Where Eisenhower seemed to pat his programs on the head, send them trotting up to Congress, and wish them well without fighting to put them through, Kennedy does the opposite.

Real Roughhouse
Still, while Kennedy and his aides work over the members of Congress, in person and by phone, there's no blood on the ground when it's over. But, to see what a roughhouse it was, look at some of the close votes, even when he lost.

When he wanted the House to enlarge the Rules Committee — so as to outnumber the combination of conservative Republicans and Southern Democrats who could strangle his programs—he won by only 217 to 212.

Last week his side fought to keep Republicans and Southern Democrats from chopping up his minimum wage bill and lost 186 to 185. The House went on then to pass a much weaker measure than Kennedy wanted.

Clobbering Possible Yet
It's been reported since he had enough House votes to win, if the votes had only shown up in time. But they didn't. They were either still in their office or on their way to vote.

This was Kennedy's first big setback. The Senate still has to act on minimum wages. Before it's over, the President may wind up a little better.

Congress has passed his bill to extend unemployment pay, one of his major items, but only after a skin-tight 44-2 vote killed an amendment which would have hashed up what he wanted.

Before this year is over, judging by the skinny margins of his victories, Kennedy may yet get clobbered and clobbered by Congress. It's too soon for him to develop comfortable feelings. What remains to be seen is this: If Congress roughs him up, will he—like others before him in adversity—get tougher, publicly and privately?

Looking for Success
He talked sternly with the Russians, but not roughly, to get them to agree to a cease-fire in Laos. They haven't yet, but they are not responding with any tough talk.

If he had done otherwise the Soviets, to save face, might have pushed their luck in Laos even if it meant war. But his dealings with them, like his dealings with Congress, are still in their infancy.

But if one conclusion about Kennedy's performance at home and abroad can be made this early, it's this: He acts like a man looking for success and not for personal triumphs.

Ray's Tackle Shop Gains Semis in Hudson Valley Tourney

THREE SOLUTIONS

Last week we discussed the fallacies of having a post season basketball tournament in Section Nine. We now offer three possible solutions in an attempt to build it up to a better standard and we understand that the first two have been tried before. In fact, at one time or another, the athletic directors have offered just about every way possible but there's always a school that wants another way.

BACK TO THE STATE TOURNEY

Several years ago, in the pre depression era, the champions of the different sections took part in a state tournament. We like that idea. It would produce basketball at its highest level and would also fill the gym practically each game, including the eliminations contests. The tourney could be run in three divisions — Classes A, B and C-D — and there's no doubt that only the best clubs would enter. After all, playing in a state tournament offers much more in the way of competition than just a sectional tourney.

BACK TO THE INTERSECTIONS

A second solution would be to have the top clubs in Section Nine (DUSO, Orange and Rockland County leagues) meet the outstanding teams in Section Two (the Albany area). Until three years ago, that's the way the tournaments were held. However, when Rockland County joined the Section Nine tourney ranks, the games with Section Two were stopped.

NO TOURNAMENTS AT ALL

Perhaps this is the best idea. Nobody could complain that they lost because of the home court, the officials couldn't be blamed for favoring one side or another and the season would be shortened by at least two weeks and possibly more. If each league keeps insisting on having a tournament run its own way, it would do well to stop post-season play. Maybe it would solve many problems.

THE SPORTSMANSHIP AWARD

As this observer expected, this year's DUSO sportsmanship banners were won by three of the village schools, all of them near the bottom of the league standings. Liberty, Port Jervis and Monticello certainly didn't have superior basketball teams but they must have lost with smiles on their faces, hence they take home banners with the word sportsmanship on them.

In our opinion, this is one award which the league can do without. It's very seldom that a city school wins the banner. This year we thought that Kingston and Newburgh's conduct was better than excellent both times they met. The fans, players, coaches and everyone connected with the teams behaved extraordinarily well. Yet, neither club was given a high enough rating in the final voting to earn a sportsmanship banner.

This leads us to the question. What's better, a championship or a sportsmanship award?

THE ALL STAR GAME

Kudos to Andy Murphy for another successful all-star promotion. As usual, three or four coaches did their best to stop the contest from being an unqualified success. They keep the boys from November until March and then refuse permission for them to play an outside game after the season has ended. We do not agree with their thinking, especially if the boys are seniors. The motives are selfish, whatever they might be.

SO LONG UNTIL SEPTEMBER

This column marks our farewell until the football season. Many thanks for the compliments, the disagreements and whatever else those who read the column might have been thinking. Anyway, thanks for just reading it. Have a good summer.

St. Peter's College Ace

Bill Smith to Appear Tonight With Pine Plains Bombardiers

George Stuetzle and his famed

Pine Plains Bombardiers will start defense of their Kingston Basketball tournament title tonight at the Municipal Auditorium and the Bombardiers are "loaded."

The defending champs will meet the Poughkeepsie Collegians at 8:15 after the McLean Well Drillers of Germantown open the program against Morgan Fuel of Poughkeepsie.

Heading the Pine Plains cast is Bill Smith, 6-5 star from St. Peter's College in Jersey City. Smith was drafted in the fourth round by the New York Knicks after an outstanding career at the Jersey City college. The 6-5, 190 pound guard averaged better than 25 points a game. He has a good jump shot from outside and will probably perform in the backcourt for the Knicks.

Star Studded Roster

Smith is not the only star with the Bombardiers. Ted Dwyer, who was seen here when he played with Columbia, will be back. He's interning at a New York hospital but plays ball when he has a chance.

Also appearing with the Pine Plains team will be Jack Curry, the former Siena college star; Garry Mendez, Charley and Deke Johnson, former Poughkeepsie High flashes and several other performers. Stuetzle has rounded up quite an array in his bid to capture the title for a second straight season.

The Collegians will be led by Mickey SaVino, the ex-Arlington High ace, and Steve Albrecht, who was one of Poughkeepsie High School's all-time top athletes. The team has several other good players but does not appear to be in the same class as the Bombardiers.

Two Good Clubs

The first game promises to be a close one. Morgan Fuel captured the Poughkeepsie cage title under the banner of McAuley's Tavern. Leading the invaders will be a pair of "old pros," Richie Moran and Clem Capra. The roster also includes Al Smith, Steve Sandberg, Joe Champ, Al Larsen, Bill Madden, Ronnie Elderkin and others. Racky Riti will handle the club. Jim Woodward, former Siena college star, and Bobby Martin, the rotund backcourt ace from Arlington High, will lead the McLean Well Drillers. The team has played here on previous occasions and has always given a good performance.

The winners of tonight's games will collide next Tuesday at 8:15 in a semi-final attraction. The first contest on Tuesday will match Ray's Tackle Shop of Kingston against Reub's Five.

Gray Takes Lead In AAIGT, Clouts 4-Under-Par 68

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Downing Gray, a husky Florida State senior, held a three-stroke lead today as 80 players from 20 schools began the second round of the All-America Intercollegiate Golf Tournament.

North Texas State held the team medal lead as pre-tournament, favorites challenged the lead Gray, 22, compiled in Wednesday opening round with a four-under-par 68.

The par-breaking performance by the low amateur of the recent Pensacola Open left the favorites three to eight strokes off the pace.

Homero Blancas, Houston junior who shared the individual title last year, had a 71. Frank Beard of Florida, winner of the Florida Intercollegiate title two weeks ago, shot a 73. Richard Crawford, Houston senior who won the NCAA championship in 1959 and 1960, took a 76.

Tied with Blancas at 71 were Frank Luke of North Texas and Chris Blocker of Texas Tech. Posting par 72s for the 6,785-yard Pine Forest Country Club course were Dickie Doble of Texas A&M and Sam Carmichael of Louisiana State.

North Texas, with a 294, held a two-stroke lead over Texas A&M in team medal play. LSU had 300, Florida and Florida State 301, Houston 302, Alabama 304, Oklahoma State, New Mexico and Oklahoma 305, Texas 306, Texas Tech 307, Baylor 309, Texas Wesleyan 314, Southern Methodist 315, Stephen F. Austin (Texas) 317, Hardin-Simmons 320, Western Illinois 321, Rice 328, and Yale 332.

Player on Tour Has Won $25,000 To Lead Palmer

DUNEDIN, Fla. (AP) — Gary Player continues to ride a financial crest which makes him the leading money winner in professional golf.

The 26-year-old South African has earned $25,000 so far this season on the professional tour. Just behind him in No. 2 spot is last year's top money winner, Arnold Palmer, playing out of Ligonier, Pa. Palmer has won $21,000.

In third spot with $14,700 is Doug Sanders of Ojai, Calif. Bob Goaly of Crystal River, Fla., is fourth with $12,800, while Billy Maxwell of Oceanside, Calif., is fifth with $12,100.

Kowolics Clears Tough Spare To Pace Brewers to Top Spot

DETROIT (AP) — Ed Kowolics has knocked down 32,959 pins in three decades of American Bowling Congress tournaments. Three pins Wednesday night were among the toughest of all.

The 33-year-old Chicagoan, who first stepped on an ABC tournament lane in 1929, cleared a 2-4-5 spare to give Hamm Brewers the Classic team division lead with 5,910.

A year ago Kowolics was Hamm's anchor-man as the club rolled a 3,095 series at Toledo only to miss out on the regular team title by a single pin. A and A. Asphalt of Birmingham, Mich., won with 3,096.

Wednesday night the Hamm's passed the previous leading 5903 bowled by Continental Plastics of Roseville, Mich., on March 16.

The new six-game Classic leaders had a 2934 series Tuesday before their 2976.

Another Classic team, the Brunswick of Atlanta, Ga., settled for fourth place on a 5857. The Southerners slipped to 2865 Wednesday night after opening with 2992, the best start of any Classic club.

The Hamm's Earl Johnson moved into the Classic singles lead earlier with 733 on games of 255-256-222. Andy Rogoznicka took Classic club.

The teams finished regulation time in a 100-all tie. The Lakers, who started cold and staged a great fourth-quarter rally to pull into a tie, went ahead in the overtime. They had a three-point bulge, dropped behind, and then Jerry West put Los Angeles in front, 111-110, with 27 seconds left.

Bob Pettit then banked one off the board and Al Ferrari added two free throws with only six seconds to go. The Lakers' Elgin Baylor topped all scorers with 39. Pettit led the Hawk with 31.

$30,000 Gate Is Eyed by Dundee For Paret Bout

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Promoter Chris Dundee optimistically was predicting today a $30,000 gate for the 15-round welterweight title bout between champion Benny (Kid) Paret and Emile

Paret, largely because he has shown he can go the 15-round distance at top speed and absorb terrific punishment without wilting, still is rated a 7-5 favorite.

Paret, a tireless worker, has scored only 10 knockouts in 45 fights.

Griffith has knocked out seven opponents in 24 fights.

That would mean an attendance at about 5,000 at $15 tops, but arrangements are being made to seat 7,100 in the vast arena just in case.

Both fighters wound up their training Wednesday, with neither anticipating any trouble making the 147 pound limit for the weighing in at 11 a.m. (EST) Saturday.

VanWagenenHas That Rare '600'

There is a small and exclusive coterie of bowlers who have never rolled a 500 series, yet have a 600 triple to their credit. The newest member of the club is Principal Walter S. Van Wagenen of the Woodstock elementary school.

Van Wagenen, who is better known for his golf and baseball exploits, bashed a 606 series with games of 188, 212 and 206 in the Woodstock B League. Prior to the 606 slam, he had never even rolled a 500 triple. The number of bowlers who have achieved this trick is limited, indeed.

Double Pinochle By Ray Corcoran

Ray Corcoran, a member of St. Philomena's No. 2 squad in the Catholic AA League, last night joined that exclusive circle of bowlers who have converted the 4-7-6-10 split.

Corcoran cleaned up the so-called "double pinochle" split on alleys 29 and 30 at the Bowlerama. He will be rewarded with an official American Bowling Congress shoulder patch.

K. Broskie Rolls 573

Kathy Broskie, who inherits her bowling talent from Papa Harold, topped the New Drop timbers for a 573 series on lines of 222, 186 and 165 last night.

300 Entries Are Set for Indoor Nat'l AAU Event

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—The big splash starts today. It's the three-day, 16-event National AAU indoor swimming and diving championships.

Here to flex muscles and a possible shove toward the next Olympics are some 300-plus water whizzes from 20 states and seven foreign countries. Many of them are whiz kids, and future headlines.

A mixture of the present and the future on hand includes Southern California's Murray Rose, Indiana's Mike Troy, Al Somers, Frank McKinney and John Roeth-ke. Rose's teammate Charley Bittick, Michigan's Dick Nelson, Stamford's George Harrison, and Bill Mulliken of Miami of Ohio.

Defending titles they won last year are Somers, Bittick, Troy, Nelson, Mulliken and Harrison. Rose and Harrison are the big boys today as the latest assault on the record books starts in Yale's 50-meter practice tank, and the plush 25-yard pool.

They're the favorites in this afternoon's tests, Harrison to defend in the 400-yard individual medley, and Rose in the 1500-meter grind. Six events are scheduled Friday and the rest Saturday, with preliminaries after lunch and finals after dinner.

Young Patterson Scores Decision Over Al Jenkins

CHICAGO (AP)—The brothers Patterson — heavyweight champion Floyd and his kid brother and amateur hopeful, Ray—combined to steal the limelight of the Golden Gloves intercity bouts Wednesday night.

New York's team defeated Chicago by winning 9 bouts to 7 and Ray, 18, scored the final victory to make the decisive edge.

At 185 pounds, he spotted some 25 to Al Jenkins, a hulking foundry worker at Green Bay, Wis., and hammered out a three-round decision, bobbing and weaving, and using the peek-a-boo style of his famed brother.

Ray's victory averted an 8-8 deadlock and gave New York its 10th triumph against 16 losses and 8 draws in the series. Chicago won in Madison Square Garden last year, 12-4.

Floyd was hounded by auto-graph hunters when he appeared late in Chicago Stadium. He was given a round of applause by the 8,026 fans. He sat in the ringside press row, watching his brother.

"I think Ray should turn pro in about a year," Floyd said. "I don't think it's good for him to be an amateur too long I'll manage him."

"If anyone kicks about me being the manager, then I'll get some one to be a front man but I'll

"I think Ray will be every bit as good as me, and possibly become the No. 1 challenger," Floyd continued. "Wouldn't that be something if the two of us fought for the championship some day?"

Forester, driven by Robert Cherrix, gained an easy victory in the $3,000 Saw Mill pace before 16,821 at Yonkers Raceway Wednesday night. Time for the mile was 2:07 3-5.

The winner, a five-year-old son of Waybill, owned by the Forrester Farms of Townsend, Del., beat Tony Thistle by a length and a quarter and returned $3.70. Freight Forwarder finished third, a length behind Tony Thistle and three-quarters of a length in front of Southern Charm.

Bosox Nip Indians on Jensen Homer; Yanks Rap Tigers 5-3

By SHELDON SAKOWITZ
Associated Press Sports Writer

September 28, 1960 may turn out to be a mighty important date in the 1961 baseball fortunes of the Boston Red Sox.

On that day, Ted Williams said he was calling it a career as an active player. And Jackie Jensen announced that he was returning to the Red Sox in 1961 after a year's retirement "for personal reasons."

Thus Boston lost Williams, the colorful veteran, but regained the slugging Jensen—making a "comeback" in the American League at the age of 34.

Rain Ends Game in 7th

Jensen belted a three-run homer over the left field wall Wednesday in the bottom of the seventh and gave the Red Sox a 6-4 victory over the Cleveland Indians at Scottsdale, Ariz. Rain halted the game at the end of the seventh.

The distance-swinging outfielder accounted for four runs with a double besides his third homer of the spring.

Bill Monbouquette, a 14-game winner in 1960, pitched the seven innings for the Red Sox, who posted their 10th victory in 16 exhibition starts. Walt Bond homered twice, rather than elaborate for the Indians.

Giants Blank Cubs

Elsewhere along the exhibition circuit Wednesday, New York snapped an eight-game home base losing streak in downing Detroit 5-3. Milwaukee turned back Minnesota 6-2. Kansas City nipped St. Louis 3-2. Philadelphia whipped Pittsburgh 7-2. The Chicago White Sox licked the Los Angeles Dodgers 10-6. And San Francisco blanked the Chicago Cubs 8-0 in a game called after seven innings because of rain. Cincinnati split its squad for a day-night game. The Reds' B team bowed to Washington 5-4 in the afternoon and the "A" team lost at night to Baltimore in Miami, 9-8.

State C-E Camps Offer Boys Healthful Summer Programs

Conservation Commissioner Harold G. Wilm today reminded teenage boys that now is the time to begin making the necessary contracts if they would like to attend a New York conservation-education camp this summer.

"During July and August, the Department operates four camps where boys 13 to 15 years of age are eligible to spend a week under the sponsorship of their local sportsmen's group, service club or other civic organizations. Many of these groups, he said, have already started making preliminary plans to send one or more youngsters to the camp that serves their area."

Trains For Future

"These are not correction camps," Commissioner Wilm pointed out. "Rather, their purpose is to prepare the youngsters of today to meet some of the responsibilities they'll face in the years ahead. 'Conservation,' he added, 'is everybody's job, because the very future of America may depend on the wise use of our natural resources.'"

Located at Ray Brook (Essex County), Raquette Lake (Hamilton County), Rushford Allegany County), and DeBruce (Sullivan County), the camps provide instruction in fishing, hunting, firearms and boating safety as well as in the fundamentals of soil, water, forest, fish and wildlife conservation. The total cost including room and board is $25 a week, which is underwritten by the sponsoring group.

Last year, nearly 1500 youngsters attended the four camps, bringing the total to more than 14,000 since 1947 when the Department's first summer camp opened.

Classes Held Outdoors

According to Leroy G. Irving, who supervises the program for the Conservation Department, most of the "classes" are held outdoors to give the boys practical experience in woodlot management, elements of reforestation, fish and game management, stream improvement, soil and water conservation, trapping, preparing plants and other phases of outdoor life.

The firearms course, Irving said, includes both rifle and trap shooting, and is designed to qualify the boys for their Hunter Safety Certificate—which is now required by New York law for all first-time applicants for a hunter license. Instruction is also provided in boating safety to qualify interested youngsters for the Boating Safety Certificate they now need to operate a motorboat alone if they are 10 to 14 years of age. In addition, facilities are offered for fly

Fleisher Blasts Brahms
LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Pianist Leon Fleisher has a bit of a quarrel with some of the world's greatest composers—Brahms, for example.

"I'd like to ask Brahms why he put those fiendishly difficult passages into the B flat concerto. They're virtually unplayable," Fleisher said.

Fleisher was here Wednesday to play with the Louisville orchestra.

Expert Terms Planning Only Solution to Growth Crisis

Following a developing national pattern, the Town of Woodstock is heading into a growth crisis that can only be solved by community planning, a noted authority on the subject said at a meeting of business men in Woodstock Tuesday night.

Harry A. Anthony, A. I. P., of Leonia, N. J., one of the nation's foremost authorities on planning, told some 50 persons in Kleiner Hall that a community that fails to cope with these mounting problems is headed for trouble in the years ahead. He addressed a meeting sponsored by the Woodstock Planning Board.

The township of Woodstock, Anthony predicted, will have by the year 2000 more than four times its current population of 3,763. The national population will be doubled by the year 2000 but Woodstock, because of several unique factors will have a growth twice as large as the national expansion.

Anthony, who is a professor and acting director of Urban Planning at Columbia University, listed some of the factors as follows: (1) the community is located in the sphere of a huge metropolitan area (New York City); (2) it is a community of high prestige and highly attractive (3) there is plenty of land available in the town's 70 square miles for easy expansion.

The prominent consultant also pointed up Woodstock's attractiveness because, as he said, it is becoming more generally accepted by people. This was due to more leisure time in the modern social setup and there will be more people turning to art for personal enjoyment. The amateurs and the professionals alike will be attracted to Woodstock. Other creative and professional people will also continue to be attracted to the township.

Dynamic Speaker

Anthony, a dynamic personality, spoke for more than an hour on planning then was subjected to a piercing question and answer period in which his vast knowledge of the subject came to the fore.

The speaker defined community planning as "applying intelligent thought to the development of the community as a whole to solve the current problems and problems to be created by the population explosion of the future."

Sound planning in Woodstock would have several benefits, Anthony said. It would bring order to growth here. It would make the community a more desirable place for people now here and those coming in the future. It would also help retain the prestige and character of the town and allow the orderly economic growth of the area.

"Planning, contrary to some misconceptions, does not stop growth," Anthony pointed out. "But it can succeed only if all the population understands the principles and objectives of planning, wants them and defends them."

Anthony painted a gloomy picture of the alternatives of planning. Among these were the highly undesirable "let it happen" attitude; aimless growth patterns leading to nuisance industries, straggling traffic conditions, accidents, improper school growth and what he described as "murdering of your beautiful countryside."

Automobile Problem

Dealing with the increasing problems of locomotion, Anthony said that "autos are taking over streets, lanes and communities and parking is crowding up the land." The population boom of 30 million persons has been nearly matched by 27 million cars. The available acreage for each person is steadily shrinking. In Los Angeles, for example, 67 per cent of the downtown area has been given over to the automobile in the last 20 years.

There is nothing mystical about the town planning, said Anthony. It is merely deciding in advance what to do and making a conscious effort to achieve the desired results. It is a collaborative form of government in which professional planners guide the towns through logical processes of work established after exhaustive study of many factors relating to the community.

An expert in planning since 1945, Anthony directed planning in cities and areas around the world. He is currently preparing the Master Plan for Plattsburgh, N. Y., and an urban renewal plan for Mt. Vernon. In the past he did the planning for nearby towns like Ellenville, East Greenbush near Albany, Sloansburg and Tuckaheoe.

By means of graphs and charts, he traced the orderly growth patterns established by his company for those communities.

Following his formal discourse,

EXPERT ADVICE—Three members of the Woodstock Planning Board look on as Harry A. Anthony, nationally prominent consultant explains a project at meeting sponsored by the Planning Board. From the left: Martin F. Comeau, moderator; J. C. vanRijn, chairman and Benjamin L. Webster, program chairman. (Forno photo)

Anthony answered several questions from the floor. Crucial questions posed by attorney Alvin Moscovitz, William West Jr. and Ben Merch brought out vital principles of planning and zoning as they affect the individual property owner and climaxed a highly informative night for the audience.

J. C. van Rijn, chairman of the Planning Board, opened the meeting and introduced Benjamin L. Webster, program committee chairman, who introduced the speaker, Attorney Martin F. Comeau, a member of the Planning Board, served as moderator.

Question Box On Bond Issue

Following is another in a series of questions and answers relating to the coming Ontario Central Schools District bond issue vote:

Q Will the State Education Department approve an addition to the West Hurley elementary school at this time?

A No. The Division of Buildings and Grounds has advised it will not approve construction on this site because of several problems involved.

Q What are these problems?

A These problems pertain to the architectural structure, the heating plant, the water and sewerage system, as well as the necessity to acquire additional land.

Q Is there a danger of the Phenocia site flooding?

A Residents living in this area for 30 years attest this has never occurred. In the event the entire village of Phenocia would have been inundated. The building site is located 12 feet above the adjacent Route 214.

Q Are school building costs increasing?

A Yes, the school district architect advises that deferment of the construction program several years hence would increase the costs approximately 15 to 20 per cent.

Q Will the high school students be faced with double sessions in 1962 if the building program is not approved?

A No. All elementary students in grades kindergarten-4 will be scheduled for double sessions at that time. This will mean a loss of 69 days of instructional service for these children and greatly curtail their educational program and development.

van Rijn, Webster Will Speak at Democratic Club

Benjamin L. Webster, chairman of the Woodstock Association, and J. C. van Rijn, a member of the association, will address the monthly meeting of the Democratic Club on Thursday, April 13, at Deane's upstairs.

The speakers will discuss the activities of the Woodstock Association and since both are also members of the Town Planning Board will answer questions relating to the board in the question-and-answer period that will follow the formal presentations.

Thomas O'Brien of Lake Hill, temporary chairman of the Democratic Club, invites all persons interested in Democratic policies to attend the meeting.

"Since the problems of town planning looms larger every day with many problems to be overcome, it is imperative that there be the fullest possible discussion on these vital issues," O'Brien said.

Other business on the agenda includes the reports of the committees on the rummage sale and the first annual picnic scheduled in August.

A nominating committee will also be named to present a slate of officers at the annual election meeting in May.

Easter Dawn Service At Shady Methodist

Easter Sunday morning at 5:45 a. m. the second annual Easter Dawn Service will be held at the Methodist Church of Shady. Refreshments of rolls and beverage will be served in the church hall following the service. The Rev. A. R. Byron will be the guest speaker at this dawn service sponsored by the Methodist Youth Fellowship of the Shady church.

The service, which attracted over a hundred people last year, will be held in the field adjoining the church, weather permitting. If the weather is not good, the service will be held in the church itself.

The church choir will offer special Easter music under the direction of Mrs. Arthur Mollenbach, with Mrs. Walter Mollenbach in charge of the refreshment period.

The public is cordially invited to participate in the service and the fellowship hour following the service.

Dies of Injuries

Weekly Food Review

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Easter dinner will mean ham or turkey in many American homes, judging by supermarket and neighborhood grocery specials this weekend.

Ham prices are about unchanged from last Easter, although canned hams are up 4 to 9 cents a pound in the New York metropolitan area. Turkeys are 6 cents a pound cheaper in some sizes.

Tradition for Centuries

The Easter ham tradition goes back many centuries, according to the American Meat Institute. Peasants in those days prepared for the Easter feast by burying fresh pork legs along the seashore during fall and winter. After the meat was cured by the salt water, it was dug up and smoked over wood fires.

Ribs of beef challenge both ham and turkey as a holiday favorite in New England, the middle Atlantic states and Midwest, while leg of lamb also is a favorite in the same general areas. Such holiday items as shrimp and rock cornish game hen are as much as 10 cents a pound lower in some places.

Egg Prices Down

Families who want to decorate Easter eggs and hide them for the children to find get a break, with eggs down 2 to 7 cents a dozen from last week over a fairly wide area. Prices in the New York metropolitan area are off 4 to 12 cents a dozen from last Easter. The biggest declines are in medium and small sizes.

Best buys among vegetables are snap beans, beets, cabbage, broccoli, lettuce, medium size yellow onions, nearby parsnips and turnips, rutabagas and potatoes.

Other Good Buys

Good buys include artichokes, asparagus, carrots, celery, cauliflower, a full line of miscellaneous leafy greens, corn, endive, escarole, parsley, peas, rhubarb, spinach and orange or Oklahoma type sweet potatoes.

Best buys among fruits are bananas, grapefruit and Macintosh and Rome apples from regular storage.

Red and golden Delicious apples, Chilean honeydew melons, lemons and pineapples are rated as good buys.

District Masons Plan Convention

H. Milton Chadderdon, assistant grand lecturer of the Greene-Ulster Masonic District, today announced the district convention will be held in Masonic Temple in Highland, April 4.

Registration will be at 1 p. m., and the convention will open at 1:15 p. m. A roast beef dinner will be served in the Highland Methodist Church at 6 p. m.

The evening session will open at 7 p. m.

The program for the day will be in charge of Right Worshipful Brother Howard W. Potts, grand lecturer of Masons of the State of New York. All Master Masons are invited to attend.

Bioanalyst Bill Is Faulty Say Chemists

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The American Chemical Society in a telegram today asked Gov. Rockefeller of New York to veto a bill to license bioanalysts in New York.

The society said it did not in principle oppose the licensing of bioanalysts but objected to certain alleged defects in the present bill.

Bioanalysts perform scientific tests and analyses for physicians.

Louis P. Hammett of Columbia University, chairman of the ACS Board of Directors, said no hearings were held on the bill and it "contains phraseology which completely overlooks the interests of clinical chemists and members of several other scientific groups affected."

The society is holding its convention here.

No Answer Given For Gas Blast Wrecking Bridge

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Chunks of concrete flew nearly half a block as an explosion lifted the top layer of a bridge into a wall of debris near downtown Austin Wednesday.

There were no injuries. Four workmen at the edge of the erupting mass of stone and steel were among those escaping. A gas company employee digging a ditch two feet from the resulting crater was hurled from the hole unharmed.

Asst. Fire Marshal Leland Priest speculated the explosion came from a pocket of leaking natural gas but said he could not guess what set it off. Fire department tests an hour later showed traces of explosive gas.

Kennedy Praises Right of D. C. to President's Vote

WASHINGTON (AP)—After 160 years, residents of the District of Columbia have the right to vote for their president. And President Kennedy has hailed it as "a major step in the right direction."

But Kennedy noted that the 23rd Amendment, approved by two-thirds of the state legislatures, by no means gives district dwellers home rule—direct control over their own governing body.

Home Rule Next Aim

Kennedy's statement said "I am hopeful that the Congress, spurred by the adoption of the 23rd Amendment, will act favorably on legislative proposals to be recommended by the administration providing the District of Columbia the right of home rule."

That note was struck by many of the comments on the ratification of the constitutional amendment Wednesday by New Hampshire and Kansas, making up the 38 states needed to make it official.

At present Washington is governed by a board of commissioners chosen by the President. Congress enacts its laws and in effect is its board of aldermen.

Sen. Thruston B. Morton of Kentucky, Republican national chairman, called it a great day "for the general principle of suffrage-for-all in the United States." His statement made no mention of pressing on for home rule.

Some Still Opposed

The Democratic national chairman, John M. Bailey, however, said "While this is a great step forward, it does not carry us to the goal to which the Democratic party is pledged in its platform of 1960. We need to permit the eligible voters of the district to elect their own local government and we also need to provide for voting representation in the Congress for the district."

Some members of Congress have been opposed to the home rule idea because Washington has a Negro majority—nearly 54 per cent.

Washington's total population in the 1960 census was 763,956.

District residents have been frozen out from voting for president since its diamond shape was carved out of Maryland and Virginia in 1802. The Constitution provided for presidential electors only in the states.

Washington residents voted for president in 1792, 1796 and 1800, but they did so as residents of Maryland and Virginia. And 1800 was the last time, because the federal city was created before the next presidential election.

New-Type Swindle

MIDDLESBORO, Ky. (AP)—Police have uncovered a different type of swindle—one in which no money is involved.

They say a man, posing as a state official, visited homes receiving welfare checks.

After asking questions, the bogus official told his victims their checks were too small and promised to do something about it. In return, he received the hospitality of their homes for as long as three days while he "investigated."

Hollywood News, Views

AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—This is a story about the brothers Hickman, Darryl and Dwayne, both actors. Darryl is the elder, and he started acting early. It began when his father, a Los Angeles insurance salesman, sold a policy to Ethel Meglin, who ran a talent school for children. Turnabout was good business, so Hickman enrolled his No. 1 son in the school.

By the age of 5, Darryl was acting in movies. For a dozen years, he was one of the busiest child actors in Hollywood. Dwayne tagged after him.

"I always used to ask assistant directors: 'Hey, you got a part for my little brother?'" Darryl recalls.

His career kept him busy until he was called into the service. Meanwhile, Dwayne had landed his biggest break—a continuing role in the Bob Cummings TV show. Darryl realized there had been a change in their status when he went to Fresno for an Army show.

An elevator boy asked him: "Are you Dwayne Hickman's brother?"

When Darryl got out of the Army in 1957, he found himself referred to again and again as Dwayne's brother. It was tough to take, especially while his own career was struggling through the transition from child to adult actor.

"It hurt me emotionally. I didn't know how to cope with it," said Darryl.

Dwayne moved on to greater fame as TV's Doby Gillis while Darryl's career continued to hit and miss. Newly married and with a baby on the way, he found the jobs stopped coming.

"Naturally I started thinking that acting wasn't for me," he said. "I began to think seriously about going into insurance."

But at his wife's urging, he used his spare time for something he had long wanted to do: write. He labored over a script for himself, something that would give him a chance to sing. He sold it and himself to the Loretta Young TV show, plus three other scripts. He has collaborated on writing for other series.

His acting career started perking again. The big break came when he landed the new Civil War series, "The Americans," on NBC.

$50,000 for Liz Hospital Bill, Some Still Out

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Elizabeth Taylor's illness has cost more than $50,000—and all the medical bills are not in yet.

Her near brush with death in London this month did not come within Great Britain's national health plan, a family spokesman said.

Several specialists, including the queen's own physician, were called in when Miss Taylor suffered double pneumonia and complications.

In critical condition on March 4 when she entered the London Clinic, the actress is now recovering in the California sunshine.

Husband Eddie Fisher, commented on the huge medical bill: "The doctors were the finest in the world, and worth every penny."

The singer said that at one stage the doctors cornered him and told him there was no hope. Fisher said only his wife's intense desire to live pulled her through the most critical phase.

"She was fighting. I mean literally kicking and fighting, for her life. She also knew there was no hope, but she fought anyhow."

Both Fisher and his wife agree that London's damp climate was no place for the actress.

"We expect to buy a house here (in Beverly Hills) any second now. We're going to be California homemakers for good," Fisher said.

Price tag on the new house is $300,000.

As he talked, Miss Taylor napped in their Beverly Hills Hotel bungalow.

Before settling down in Beverly Hills, Fisher said the couple plans a little sun vacation in Palm Springs. They plan to be on hand for the Academy Awards presentation April 17.

The black-haired beauty is an odds-on favorite to cop the best actress award for her performance in "Butterfield 8."

He plays the Northern soldier on the show.

"Now I don't have enough time for everything I need to do," Darryl said. "My whole attitude has changed. Nothing seems impossible now."

And he doesn't mind in the least when he's called Dwayne Hickman's brother.

Students Explain Japanese Riots, Ike Plans Visit

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—

Ex-President Dwight D. Eisenhower listened thoughtfully while 65 Japanese students apologized for the June riots that forced him to cancel a trip to Japan last year.

Then Eisenhower, standing on the lawn of his vacation home Wednesday, told the group that he hopes to visit their country in the fall.

He added: "I consider this the last act to the June riots—and, like all good plays, it has a happy ending."

The students are appearing in Los Angeles in the play, "The Tiger," sponsored by the Moral Re-armament group. Some of the students acknowledged they had helped stage the riots. But they said the effect had been not only to divide Japan from America but also to damage the unity of the free world.
